U. S. READY TO 'CRACK DOWN' IF NAZIS LAG

Note, Demanding Protection for Americans, Contains Hint of Retaliation.

ASKS QUICK ASSURANCE

Warning Says America Won't Tolerate Subjection of Her Citizens to Decrees.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The United States may "crack down" on Nazi Germany unless formal assurances, backed up by performance, are promptly forthcoming from Berlin that Americans will not be touched by the Nazi anti-religious and anti-racial decrees, it was indicated today.

A strong hint of possible retaliatory measures was seen by diplomatic observers in the wording of the state department's sharp, terse note of yesterday.

Reminded of U. S. Rights.

The note, latest in an extended series resulting from Nazi persecution of Jews, significantly reminded that Germans in the United Sttes are accorded all the rights and liberties of American citizens.

"It is one of the fundamental principles of my government," the American note asserted, "to make no distinction between American citizens on the basis of race or creed, and uniformly in its relations with foreign nations it has emphatically declined the right of those nations to apply on their part such discrimination as between American citizens.

"This principle, furthermore, is applied by my government to nationals of foreign countries residing in the United States, including Germans."

The American government warned Germany that it cannot tolerate application of the discriminatory decrees to Americans.

"The application to American citizens of the measures referred to would be incompatible with this (fundamental) principle," the note sternly admonished.

18 MAROONED

Coast Guards Battle Gale to Reach Shipwreck Victims.

JUNEAU, Alaska—(AP)—Rescue parties fighting gales and raging seas, raced against time today to reach 18 survivors of the stranded motorship Patterson, marooned on the beach near Cape Fairweather.

The shipwrecked sailors sent word to the coast guard cutter Haida, standing by the wreckage of their craft, last night by means of an improvidesd flashlight signal system that all were weak from exposure and sore feet and that they had enough food to last two more days.

Two of their members are sick. Two others of the crew perished when the Alaskan whaling ship went aground early Monday.

After the luncheon, Mr. Roosevelt said, he will confer privately with Garner.

Spreads Yule Cheer

The Yuletide spirit prevailed at the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company today as Christmas checks were distributed to more than 1,600 employes. George W. Stephens, above, president of the company, announced that the bonus would exceed $54,000. Employes hired even after Dec. 1 received $10 each.

CLAIMS GRAVEL EQUAL TO STONE

Highway Engineer Points Out State Accepts It as Purdy Acts to Sue County.

With the filing of a suit to enjoin the Richland county commissioners from proceeding with a $68,000 PWA road resurfacing project scheduled for today or Saturday, a check of state highway resurfacing work in the country during the past year showed that gravel was used in a number of the projects by the state highway department.

H. A. Kellar, state highway engineer in the Ashland district, which includes Richland county, said today that the state accepts gravel on an equal basis with limestone in mixing "black-top" resurfacing materials.

"We have notice no appreciable difference in the quality of the two materials, but limestone probably has been used on more jobs because it is more easily available in most sections of the district," Kellar said.

"The price of the two materials is practically the same, although in some sections limestone is a little cheaper because of better transportation facilities," the engineer said.

In awarding a contract for the county PWA road resurfacing project to the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, second low bidder, commissioners contended that they preferred limestone to gravel because of its superior qualities for resurfacing purposes.

W. W. Purdy, head of the Purdy Construction company, low bidder on the project, said today he planned to go ahead with his injunction suit against the county, and that action "will be taken this week."

'Can Parade' Due Tomorrow As Kids Attend Matinees

If you see a procession of youngsters down town tomorrow morning, lugging packages of canned goods—think nothing of it. It will be the kids who are on their way to the two "can matinees", one at the Ritz theater and the other at the Park.

Both theaters are co-operating with the Three Muster-Cheers to help fill the Christmas baskets which will be distributed Dec. 24 at the Salvation Army hall.

And both theaters have arranged movie programs that are "honeys" for the kids who bring canned goods to the shows tomorrow morning.

The Ritz will give the youngsters a bill made up of a Gene Autry feature, a Laurel and Hardy comedy, a Popeye cartoon and a news reel, while the Park has a thrilling and tuneful musical western, "Romance on the Range," a Charlie Chase comedy, a color cartoon and a news reel.

The Park, which comes into the Community Christmas picture for the first time this year, is also running an attractive screen trailer on the Christmas ball.

Both shows will open their doors at 9 30 a. m. tomorrow and start the shows at 10.

DEFIES DAVEY

Limbach Says Governor Won't Force Him to Quit Dem Post.

WASHINGTON—(UP)—A promise that he would oppose any attempt by supporters of Gov. Martin L. Davey to force his retirement as Democratic state chairman in Ohio was left here today by Arthur L. Limbach who managed the gubernatorial campaign of Charles Sawyer.

Here for conferences with national party leaders, Limbach said he was willing to give way to "anyone more competent to handle the job," but added:

"It won't happen through any move by the Davey organization."

EX-SHERIFF TAKEN TO PEN FOR BRIBERY

Mansfield-Richland County Public Library

Grall, Smarting Under Verbal Lashing From Judge Huston, Begins Prison Sentence.

GIVEN 1 TO 10 YEARS

Mansfield Jurist, Presiding at Lorain Trial, Refuses Plea for Probation.

Smarting under a verbal lashing from Judge C. H. Huston of Richland county who sentenced him to one to 10 years in the Ohio penitentiary for accepting a $30 bribe, former Sheriff William F. Grall of Lorain county today was taken to the penitentiary to begin his term.

Grall, found guilty by a jury of nine men and three women which deliberated slightly more than two hours, was on his way to the penitentiary just five days after his trial opened at Elyria.

Lectures Defendant.

Telling the former sheriff that "you brought this all on yourself," Judge Huston, who presided at the trial by assignment, gave Grall one of his characteristic lectures yesterday before sentencing him.

Judge Huston refused the defense plea to put Grall on probation, asserting that "your mental attitude is not one that will permit me to put you under probation. We have placed men on probation when we felt that they were in a mental state of reform."

Points to Perjury.

"In your case, however, such an attitude is lacking," Judge Huston added. "You committed perjury when you were called before the grand jury. All through this trial you were blaming your chief deputy, William G. Smith, and you were hiding behind your sick wife and your family when you were the cornerstone for corruption in your department. It's time you stopped pitying yourself."

Before sentence was pronounced, Grall said, "My wife is my bond." He pleaded for leniency so he could care for his wife who has been ill. Although present during a part of the trial, she was not present when Grall was sentenced. They have six children.

The specific charge against Grall was that he accepted money from Maxine Barbour, alias Penny Morgan. He admitted taking the money but said he returned it on condition that she help him solve a murder. Miss Barbour also was indicted but has not been apprehended.

Judge Huston returned to Mansfield last night and heard two divorce cases this morning in the court of appeals room while his own common pleas courtroom was being used for a Muskingum Conservancy district flood easement suit.

SEVEN INJURED

Loaded Coal Cars Crash Into Mine Workers.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va.—(AP)—A string of loaded mine cars broke loose on a siding at the No. 7 mine of the Eastern Coal Corporation at McVeigh, Ky., today and crashed into a loaded man trip.

Seven men were hurt, one of them seriously.

Physicians said the condition of Ray Lane was critical but eight other miners brought to hospitals for observation suffered mostly from shock and severe bruises.

The mine is about 15 miles from Williamson.

Two Character Sketches--A Drug Firm President and an Ex-Convict

FRANK DONALD COSTER

A PERSON of greatest dignity could hardly be imagined. His clothes are of the very best material cut by the most expensive tailors, but they are sober grays. His voice is heavy-toned, his accent is cultured. But his reticence is so marked it occasions unending comment among his associates. His reputation is of a resolute man whose thoughts are translated directly into action without the intervention of words. He has no friends, no intimates. He is like a spider, inert in the center of a web, planning, always planning. Suddenly he is electrified into action and he strikes with amazing speed. His associates are invited to his home, are impressed by its cultural background, by the excellent cuisine, by the fact that the host proves himself exceptionally skilled at cards, particularly bridge. Card playing and the sea are his only diversion, he loves the sea and is aboard his big sea-going yacht at every opportunity. Otherwise, he devotes himself to making money as an ascetic devotes himself to the salvation of his soul. He pyramids his firm's business, million upon million upon million. He seems never to want it to stop.

These two sketches are of the same man—an Italian immigrant boy in his 20's, then in his 50's.

PHILIP MUSICA

THE son of Italian immigrants, his education has been faulty, his social background is not of the best, but he makes up for it with a lightning quick intelligence, a glib and persuasive tongue, a cocky confident bearing, a suavely earnest manner. He comes a cropper bribing customs employes but is no sooner out of prison, then he illegitimately pyramiding another business. Rolling in wealth, he makes up for the lean years of his childhood by sporting spats that always are the precise color of his pants, fancy jewelry, extravagant vests. He wines and dines stage celebrities and has the ear of financiers. From each one, he learns something—a polished accent from one, table manners from another, how to wear good clothes like a gentleman. His crooked business shimmies, is about to fall. Cockily, he tells the now suspicious bankers that he'll make good on the morrow and in the night he flees. Caught, he tries to kill himself, is returned to New York City, pleads guilty, tells the district attorney that he had been motivated by an overpowering greed for money.

Coster, McKesson & Robbins President, Shoots Self At Home After Inquiry Shows He, 2 Other Officials Were Brothers In Family of Swindlers.

BULLETIN

FAIRFIELD, Conn.—(AP)—F. Donald Coster, indicted president of the McKesson & Robbins drug firm, shot and fatally wounded himself today at his home here.

Coster died while the Fairfield police ambulance was en route to his home. No details were immediately available.

At the time of the shooting U. S. Marshal Bernard Fitch of New Haven was en route to the Coster home after receiving telephoned from New York, where Coster was indicted yesterday, to re-arrest him.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Federal officers broke into the home of Arthur Musica, alias George Vernard, today and seized him before he could make good an apparent attempt to escape.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Three executives blamed for the $18,000,000 McKesson & Robbins drug scandal were identified today as brothers—members of the swindling Musica family which flourished in the first two decades of the century and was heard of no more until fingerprints revealed F. Donald Coster, president of the 105-year-old drug company, as Philip Musica.

Exposure of Coster as the elder brother and "brains" of the family which perpetrated a $1,000,000 "human hair" swindle in 1912, was made last night, and today the state attorney general's office announced that witnesses had identified George Vernard, Canadian manager of the firm, and George Dietrich, assistant treasurer, as Arthur and George Musica.

All three are under federal indictment charging violation of the securities act of 1934.

Authorities also, it was learned, were investigating the possibility that Mrs. Coster might actually be one of the Musica sisters, Louise or Grace. Mrs. Coster's $100,000 balance in her brokerage account recently was tied up by court order on the grounds that the money represented sums fraudulently obtained by her husband.

Thus the Italian immigrant family which began a fantastic criminal career by smuggling cheese in the early years of the century, only to be lost in the mists of obscurity later, re-entered the criminal records in connection with the biggest financial coup in its history.

Unmasked by Secretary.

Arthur Musica came back to life after nearly two decades of obscurity when Eleanor Lockne, a secretary in McKesson & Robbins, Inc., identified Vernard as the next-to-oldest of the five children born to Antonio and Asunta Musica, Neapolitan immigrants who came to this country in 1883.

Associates of the executives in Bridgeport, Conn., where the drug company's main offices are situated, identified Dietrich as the third son, George.

While the revelations were being made, federal authorities received a report that an automobile in front of Venard's Brooklyn home was being loaded with baggage. Assistant U. S. Attorney Lester C. Dunigan sent department of justice agents to the house.

Miss Lockne in identifying Vernard said she had seen a letter

OHIO KIDNAPERS SENT TO PRISON

2 Men, 2 Women, Jailed in Abduction of State Officer, Get Long Terms.

(By United Press)

LEBANON—Two men and two women who pleaded guilty to charges of kidnaping State Highway Patrolman Parker W. Powell on Dec. 8 were sentenced today to five to 30 years imprisonment on the kidnaping charge and to 10 to 25 years on an armed robbery charge.

Sentence was passed by Judge Charles B. Dechant in common pleas court upon Coy Russell, 29, Houston, Tex.; David I. Cross, 29, Hamilton, Pa.; Marie Day, 25, alias Hatfield, Ashland, Ky., and Naomi Hayes, 25, Steele, Mo.

The men will be imprisoned in Ohio penitentiary at Columbus and the women in Marysville women's reformatory. Judge Dechant ruled that the men's sentences must be served consecutively, but that the women's sentences might be served concurrently.

The case was disposed of quickly after Prosecutor C. D. Dilatush and Sheriff William Hufford received reports that suspicious-appearing persons had been seen here this week.

Corporal Powell was abducted when he questioned the four persons after an automobile collision in which their car figured. He was released a short time later unharmed. All four of his kidnapers were captured within a few hours during one of the biggest searches ever organized by Ohio authorities

UNION LEADER DIES IN BLAZE

14-Year-Old Son Unable to Save Him; Victim Was Father of 10.

CINCINNATI—(UP)—Frank Hammer, 48, secretary and business agent of Truck Drivers' and Teamsters' union No. 100, died in a fire that destroyed his home here today despite an attempt of his 14-year-old son to save his life.

Three of Hammer's 10 motherless children were injured. Seven of them jumped from a porch roof.

Hammer, whose wife burned to death 11 years ago, apparently was overcome by smoke when he ran into a bedroom to recover valuables. His son, Thomas, was cut on the right foot while trying to reach his father.

SEEK STREET AID

Mayor and Nist Confer With Highway Chief in Columbus.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter, accompanied by Service-Safety Director Earl A Nist and Boyd Wierman, resident engineer for the state highway department, were in Columbus today seeking financial assistance from the state for the improvement of West Fourth street.

They were to meet with I. R. Ault, state highway director, this forenoon at which time they were to re-submit plans and estimates for the improvement of the street from Diamond street west to the corporation line.

Mayor Hunter and Nist also planned to call on the state department of public welfare for the purpose of obtaining the new sewer contract for the Ohio State reformatory which they said had been signed and was to have been sent here several weeks ago.

SEES DELAY IN TAX COLLECTION

Treasurer Says Re-appraisal to Hold Up Opening of Tax Books Until About Feb. 1.

A delay in the opening of the county's collection of real estate taxes, set for early in January, was in prospect today, and County Treasurer John E. Kolb predicted tax books would not open until Feb. 1.

Major cause of the delay, it was said, was the reappraisal of real estate this year and the resulting change in the tax duplicate. New values were established for most of the county property, and the revised figures will be used in determining tax payments.

For the first time, the county's property owners will receive statements for their taxes, with the bills due to go out when tax books open. They will show the amount of tax due the first half of the year and point out that by paying twice that amount the property owner can avoid a second trip to the treasurer's office during the second half.

Statements will be prepared on the county's new addressograph machine which can handle 90 statements a minute. Employes of the auditor's and treasurer's offices have been busy for several months preparing metal data plates for each of the more than 33,000 parcels of real estate in the county.

A plate will be filed for each person who pays real estate tax, bearing his address, the amount of property he owns, the location, tax rate, and amount of tax.

The plates are used in the addressograph which stamps the name and other data on the statement and receipt.

AULT TRIAL SET

Highway Chief Slated to Face Court in Mt. Vernon Jan 3.

Twice postponed, the trial of Ivan R. Ault of Ashland, recently appointed state highway director, on charges of violating the state civil service laws, was set today for Jan. 3 at Mt. Vernon by Knox County Common Pleas Judge P. H. Wieland

Ault, former division engineer of the Ashland district, was named director of the state department by Gov. Martin L. Davey while under indictment on charges of soliciting campaign funds from state highway employes in behalf of Davey's unsuccessful primary campaign. He succeeded John J. Jaster, jr., who resigned following a political row with the governor.

Attorneys for Ault obtained a change of venue to Knox county after Ault was indicted by the Ashland county grand jury.

The highway director's term expires in January when the administration of Governor-elect John W. Bricker takes office.

WOLFE, COLUMBUS PUBLISHER, HURT

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Edgar T. Wolfe, 44, publisher of the Ohio State Journal and Miss Blanche Martin, 35, Columbus, were in a hospital today with injuries received when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a trolley bus.

A hospital report showed that Wolfe had broken ribs on the left side, cuts on the forehead and at the base of skull, and possible internal injuries. Miss Martin had a fractured right forearm, bruises on her right leg, back and chest injuries.

Wolfe's automobile was wrecked in the collision with a city bus driven by M. S. Stover, 40, late last night. Stover suffered minor abrasions.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Whitfield Rowan, 64, of Worthington, was killed in an automobile collision near here last night. He was riding in the car of Harry T. Sullivan 59, Worthington, when it collided with one driven by Gerald Schuller, 22, Upper Sandusky. Sullivan and Schuller were cut and bruised.

Martin's Trial In Final Stages, Jury To Get Case Soon

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Several minor witnesses and final arguments were scheduled to be heard today in the trial of Martin Snyder, charged with shooting Myrl Alderman, new husband of blues singer Ruth Etting. After these presentations, the case will go to the jury.

Snyder told of intimate scenes with Miss Etting, swore that Alderman, the "other" man, had acted as a "procurer" for two Hollywood celebrities, and insisted that he fired at Alderman in self defense the night of October 15.

A detective hired by Alderman's former wife said that as far as he could observe—and he had observed considerable—Miss Etting and her pianist had lived together in the latter's home for weeks before Snyder took the law in his own hands.

Then Mrs. Alderman No. 2, who has sued Miss Etting (bride No. 3) for $150,000 on alienation of affections charges, testified that Alderman hadn't seen their 14-month-old baby since she was an incubator infant and had never sent it a gift, "not even a penny post card."

New Trio To Make Debut At Christmas Ball Monday Night

They'll Have Part In Floor Show, Feature of Yule Event.

MAKING its first public appearance at the Muster-Cheer Christmas ball Monday night at the Coliseum is a Mansfield trio that will be heard frequently in the future, and, if we are any good as prognosticators, it's going to be heard favorably.

The "Two Maids and a Man," trio, made up of Jane Weuthrich and Ruth Cox, who were formerly with the Three Grace Notes, and Lawrence "Bing" Chamberlain, who is well known in Mansfield music circles, is a "different" combination of voices, for not often is a man's voice used to harmonize with two feminine voices on popular songs. Chamberlain is a tenor and Miss Weuthrich and Miss Cox are soprano and contralto, respectively.

The trio will be heard in two popular numbers, "Three Little Words" and "This Time It's Real."

THANK YOU, OFFICERS!

The Mansfield police department today contributed $50 to the Three Muster-Cheers for the Christmas basket fund, bringing the amount of contributions to date to little more than a hundred dollars

Here are "Two Maids and a Man"—a new Mansfield trio to be heard at the Muster-Cheer Christmas ball Monday night at the Coliseum. They are left to right, Jane Weuthrick, Lawrence Chamberlain and Ruth Cox.

The entire Christmas show—proceeds from which will fill the Christmas baskets this year for several hundred families—will

MORGAN, LORE SHOW UP WELL ON FROSH QUINTET AT OHIO WESLEYAN

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

NOEL MORGAN, one of the tougher little men to stand out in athletics at Mansfield high, and Eddie Lore, all-around Mt. Vernon star, are teammates on the freshman club at Ohio Wesleyan. Doing well, too, thank you. . . . If the Yankees take up broadcasting, Tom Manning of WTAM will do the announcing, according to reports. . . . It has been suggested that Carnegie Tech take Referee John Getchell of "wrong down" fame south as an official because he owes the Tartans a touchdown and maybe they can collect. . . . Francis Schmidt claims a player is at his best as a junior. Schmidt believes that by the senior year some of the zest is missing.

Sacramento high school teams award victory, in case of a tie, to the club which has most often crossed the enemy 20-yard line. If that's a tie, too, then the team with the most yardage gained wins. . . . Instead of spring practice, Rochester university football team has a 10-day workout after the close of the season. . . President of the Oklahoma state board of agriculture has come out against football. Thinks more good would be done his state if the money spent in hiring football coaches were used to improve the state's livestock. "Why, you ought to be able to buy a dozen dandy bulls for what one coaching staff costs," he said.

Bohumil Vana, greatest table tennis player in the world, is a native of Czechoslovakia. He is exhibiting in this country because, an eastern writer comments, there is not enough left of his native land to make room for a good table tennis demonstration. . . Joe Louis' willingness to risk his heavyweight title against John Henry Lewis is said to be in the nature of a charitable gesture. Lewis is going blind in one eye and must quit the ring, it is said. The January fight will give him a stake on which to retire

There'll Be No Excuses Now.

OHIO STATE'S basketball squad of 20 voted to cut their hair to a one-inch limit. To prevent anyone from saying that they missed a shot or pass because "hair got into their eye," evidently. . . . A tennis player runs approximately five miles during a five-set match. . . . Steve Little, 15-year-old Frankie Holloway, 130-pound sophomore at Lafayette, Colo., high, set some sort of a record this year when he scored three touchdowns on three plays. Entering the game in the second period as the teams were locked in a scoreless tie, Frank caught a punt and returned it 85 yards for a score. Because he was suffering from a boil, he was taken out and did not return until the third period. Then, the first two times he carried the ball, he ran 40 and 50 yards for touchdowns on off-tackle drives.

Reserve strength makes Southern California a good bet over Duke Jan. 2. Of the 25 touchdowns the Trojans have scored this year, 15 of them have been registered by second-stringers. And, you know, the Trojans have never lost a Rose Bowl game. . . .

COACHES WIN, 60 TO 41

The Richland county coaches basketball team defeated the Mansfield Schoolmasters, 60 to 41, in a game played this week.

Engage Rangy Cagers

Visiting Lineup Includes Members of 1936-37 Ohio Title Team.

Lyons	G	Sarringhaus
Herpich	G	Born

MANSFIELD high school basketeers inaugurate the home end of their schedule in the hard way tonight.

Instead of prying off the lid against a set-up as is the custom, Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers tonight engage one of the standout quintets of the state.

The opponent is Hamilton high school, 1936-37 state champion and an Ohio tournament finalist again last year.

Team Highly Touted.

Hamilton's cage forces come to the Mansfield athletic plant tonight with one of the greatest teams in history. It is an all-veteran team, which includes several holdovers from the 1936-37 club.

What the Tygers can accomplish in competition with this crack outfit will virtually determine their season's prospects.

The Tygers made an impressive showing against Shelby in their opener, but bowed to Cleveland West in an overtime period last week.

Mansfield's defeat in the Cleveland game can be disregarded entirely due to spotty officiating and the handicap of a small floor, but whether the Tygers are capable of holding their own with the stronger clubs in the state will be decided tonight.

Murphy has his squad of Tygers working in machine-like fashion, and, while victory prospects for tonight's tiff may not be encouraging, the club should offer the touted visitors an interesting ball game.

Although the Tygers boast of several six-footers, Hamilton will hold a big height advantage Only one member of the squad stands less than six feet, with Center Chet Lairson the tallest at six-five.

Paul Sarringhaus is the smallest member of the club at 5-11, but one of the most dangerous Twice named to the All-Ohio football team and once to the all-state court club, Sarringhaus, who plays a guard, is the fastest of the Big Blue and a crack shot.

Other members of the 1937-38 Hamilton club who saw service in the state finals last spring are Capt. John Born, George Dreher, Roscoe Messer and Bill Miller.

In games to date, Hamilton has beaten Columbus Aquinas, 38 to 25, and Columbus West, 42 to 13.

Dugger to Play.

Murphy announced today that the starting lineup he used against Shelby and West would be employed tonight, but indicated that Jack Dugger would probably see a lot of service in an attempt to equalize the height advantage of the Hamilton club.

The game will get under way at approximately 8 p. m. with a preliminary tilt featuring the Mansfield reserves going on the boards an hour earlier.

FIGHT ON AIR

Tonight's Tommy Farr-Lou Nova heavyweight fight will be broadcast via WJZ-NBC at 10 o'clock.

Bellville, Butler Collide Tonight

Only two games are on schedule in the Richland county basketball league tonight. Butler and Bellville, two of the three undefeated clubs, meet at Bellville, while Ontario goes to Lexington. Bellville goes to Union and Lucas to Perrysville Saturday night.

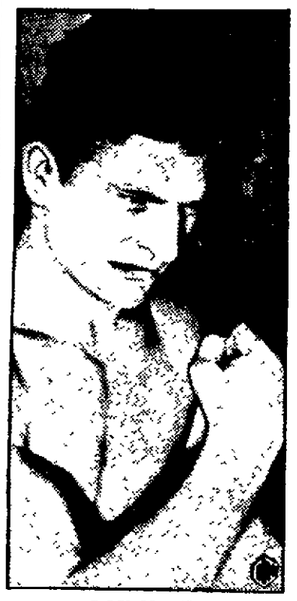
* * *

N. C. O. conference contests tonight: Ashland at Shelby, Marion at Bucyrus, and Galion at Mt. Vernon. Twin-Valley league: Shiloh at New Haven, and Plymouth at Attica.

Fight Tonight For Chance At Joe Louis

Farr Favored to Take Measure of Nova.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The most significant heavyweight fight of the apathetic indoor season will go on in Madison Square Garden tonight between Lou Nova, a promising youngster from Alameda, Calif., and Tommy Farr, a dodderer ing ancient of 24 from Tonypandy, Wales. The prize is the doubtful pleasure of fighting Joe Louis for the heavyweight title sometime next year.



LOU NOVA

The only obstacle between tonight's victor and the stiff left jab of the champion is Max Baer. The unpredictable one beat Farr last winter and if Tommy wins and gets another shot at Louis, there will be plenty of hollering from Baer. But there has been something less than a universal demand for another Louis-Baer fight.

It is a sad commentary on U. S. boxing that two years of beating the bushes for a white hope has produced only Nova. He is pretty fair but the fortune that awaits the man who eventually beats Louis should have attracted an army of good young heavyweights.

Nova is a handsome young fellow whose most convincing eastern win was against Gunnar Barlund, a victory deemed by Barlund's defeat at the hands of the inept Roscoe Toles.

Nova's chief stock in trade is a good short right. He also has a fair left but that shouldn't bother Farr, as Tommy took the Louis jab. Lou is fairly fast, smart and strictly a boxer.

The bookmakers do not think this is enough. They have made Farr the favorite.

SNEAD DROPS IN REAR OF MIAMI GOLF FIELD

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS)—Slamming Sam Snead was safely tucked away among the also-rans as the field of 200 entered the second round of the $10,000 Miami open that might have boosted his year's tourney earnings over the magic $20,000 mark.

The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro sloughed around the course with a 79 in the opening round as Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and Johnny Geertson of Salt Lake City shared top honors with a pair of 66's, four strokes under par.

WALLACE COUNTED OUT

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—Frankie Wallace of Cleveland was counted out in the eighth round of his scheduled 10-round boxing bout with Joe Boccarino, Rochester welterweight, last night as he sat in his corner protesting that he couldn't use his injured right arm

Boxers, Wrestlers Share Card Tonight

A combination wrestling and boxing card will again be featured tonight by the Quality Athletic club in the Armory ring. In the mat matches, Everett (Silent) Rattan will tangle with Walter Stratton, a favorite in the city several years ago, and Whitey Wahlberg will collide with Jack Lipscomb.

Two six-round boxing matches are on the card. Principals in the bouts will be announced in the ring, Matchmaker Tim Nolan announced today. The show will get under way at 8:30 p. m.

ONTARIO SOHIOANS SEEK SECOND WIN SATURDAY

The Ontario Sohioans will be seeking their second straight victory of the season Saturday night when they tackle the Wooster Merchants on the Ontario high court.

In the preliminary attraction, the Ontario Ex-Hi's face the Raemelton Farm quintet of the Friendly House Senior league. The opening game is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

Fatkin Sets New Wooster Tank Records

Ex-Tyger Breaks Marks in Interclass Meet.

WOOSTER—Earle Fatkin, a graduate of Mansfield high school, now a letterman on the College of Wooster swimming team, broke both the 50-yard free style and the 100-yard free style records for Wooster swimmers in the annual interclass meet this week.

Fatkin swam the 50-yard free style event in 25.9 seconds which is seven-tenths better than the previous Wooster mark.

After a brief rest, Fatkin swam the 100-yard free style in 58.8 seconds, cutting seven-tenths of a second off of the mark for this event.

Fatkin's two firsts helped the junior class to cop the meet with 34 points. He was also anchor man on the juniors' winning relay team. The seniors were second with 23 points, the sophomores next with 18.5, and the freshmen last with 15.5.

Coach Carl B. Munson has dismissed his swimmers until after the Christmas holiday vacation but urged them to keep in condition and to take as much swimming practice as home facilities will permit.

The Scot swimmers open the 1939 season with Case in Cleveland, Jan. 16.

Detroit Choice To Chase Yanks

Tigers Believed Strengthened by Deals Pulled Off at Major League Meeting.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—The baseball men have left this old trading post after three riotous days during which the conversation went round and round, and in calm retrospect today it looks as if the Detroit Tigers did more good for themselves than any other club.

In landing Third-Baseman Pinky Higgins, a proven star, in yesterday's major trade with the Boston Red Sox, the Tigers, finally managed to board up up their blind spot, a pronounced weakness at third base. Now all Manager Del Baker has to worry about is where to play Rudy York.

Neither the Boston Red Sox, who finished second in the junior loop, nor Cleveland, which staggered in third ahead of Detroit, appears to have benefited materially from what small trading was done, so Detroit must become the choice to chase the Yankees to the wire next year. They won't, of course, catch the Yankees.

Cleveland acquired the veteran his arm away. Chapman adds temperament to Cleveland, a club outfielder, Ben Chapman. The Red Sox got three fair-to-middling pitchers in Elden Auker and Jake Wade from Detroit and Denny Galehouse from Cleveland. The

Ashland's Eagles Register Fourth Straight Win

(By Associated Press)

THINGS are looking up in the athletic department of Ashland college, the Ohio school that won distinction by "taking it" during the gridiron season.

Ashland's Eagles last night scored their fourth consecutive basketball victory in as many starts, scoring to a 53 to 35 triumph over Ohio Northern in an Ohio conference battle.

Unlike Ashland's numerically small football squad, the Eagles' court contingent apparently boasts excess talent.

Out front 34-10 at the half, Coach Frank Lonero sent in the Ashland Reserves to finish the game — and the Polar Bears, Sprague, an elusive sharp-shooting forward, paced the Eagles with 18 points, but Richcreek, a guard, was close on his heels with 15. Chojnicki, a forward, led Ohio Northern with 15 points.

In another conference tilt, Kent State's Golden Flashes trounced Muskingum 51 to 35. The Staters ended the first half on the short end of a 29-28 count, but Forward Wayne Griffith looped 11 of his 20 points in the last half.

Toledo university's Rockets rang up their third straight win by drubbing St. Mary's of Winona, Minn., 46 to 38. Charley Chuckouts again set the Toledo tempo, netting 16 points The Rockets led at half-time, 22-19.

Wilmington college also turned in a third consecutive victory, taking Earlham of Richmond, Ind., 28 to 17. The Indiana quintet was ahead at the half, 11-8.

The rigors of daily contests seem to be slowing up Wittenberg's touring Lutherans, who fell before Swarthmore college at Swarthmore, Pa. The score was 46 to 36 The victory was the 17th in a row, including last season, for the Pennsylvanians, who led at the half, 20-14.

Billiards, Sohioans Win Again

Victories Keep Teams in Tie for League Lead.

THE Rex Billiards and Blue Goose Sohioans remained in a tie for first place after last night's games at the Friendly House.

Adding to their lead as the game progressed, the Cuemen whipped the Raemelton Farm, 34 to 23, and the Sohioans trimmed the Augustine Canfield Oils, 28 to 15. The Miller Dairys won over the Musille Cigars, 31 to 26, in the other game.

The Billiards did not obtain a comfortable lead in their tilt until the final period. They held a one-point 10-9 lead at the end of the first period and a 15 to 12 advantage at the half. Brucato and Richards led the Rex scoring, with K. Hardin high for the Farmers.

The Blue Goose team also found it difficult to secure a safe lead. The score was tied 7-all at the end of the first period, but the Sohioans gained a four-point lead in the second quarter that they carried into the final chapter.

Blue Goose allowed the Canfields only one point in the fourth frame to sew up the decision. Willard Lockhart led the Sohioans with a dozen points.

Trailing 6 to 2 at the completion of the opening period, the Miller Dairys rallied in the second quarter of their game with the Cigars to hold an 11 to 0 advantage at the half. They held a two-point lead going into the final quarter. Moritz led the winners with 11 points. Huffman tallied 10 for the losers.

BARONS MOVE INTO TIE FOR RUNNER-UP POST

HERSHEY, Pa. — (NS) — The Hershey Bears may lead the western division of the International-American Hockey league, but they can't beat the Cleveland Barons. The Barons moved into a tie for second place last night when they came out on top, 2 to 1, in a slam-bang affair that included a near riot and a number of fist fights, climaxed when Red Hamill, of the Bears, took referee Burke to the ice with him in the final minutes of play and brought the fans swarming to the boards

DETROIT CHOICE TO CHASE YANKEES

Sox were in desperate need of mound replacements, since old Lefty Grove finally has pitched which already owned more than its share.

In giving up Auker and Wade, Detroit has gambled mightily that Fred Hutchinson, its expensive young pitching prize from Seattle, will live up to his price tag. The Tigers gave two seasoned players, Jo-Jo White and Tony Piet, and a lot of Owner Walter Briggs' automobile money for the 19-year-old, who won 25 and lost seven last year. They cannot count too strongly on Archie McKain, the southpaw they got from Boston.

So, if Hutchinson is able to get the big league batters out, and Higgins plays as he did for Boston and the Athletics, Detroit has done something toward cutting down the Yankees' great superiority. The champions didn't discuss a deal of any sort during the meeting, having previously rounded out their plans for 1939 with the acquisition of Pitcher Oral Hildebrand from St. Louis.

"They're set," admitted Oscar Vitt of Cleveland. "Hildebrand probably will win 15 for them, and this Charley Keller they've got coming up from Newark is going to make a lot of folks forget all about Joe DiMaggio. Remember, I told you last year about Joe Gordon."

Over in the National league, the consensus seems to be that the Boston Bees did the smartest bit of trading when they got First-Baseman Buddy Hassett from Brooklyn. Hassett is a fine tenor singer and a .300 hitter.

In exchange, they parted only with Gene Moore, an outfielder who was of little use to them most of last season, and Ira Hutchinson, a pitcher they didn't need.

Significant was the fact that the Cincinnati Reds didn't attempt a deal of any kind. They think they can win the National league flag next year as they stand, even with a weakness at third base. They might, at that, if Vander Meer, Grissom and Derringer take their regular turns on the mound all season.

REPORT SHOWS STEEL INCREASE

Greater Operations Highlight Business Review; Rubber Industry Gains.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Expanded steel operations dominated the November business scene in Ohio, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania, the monthly business review of the Fourth District Federal Reserve bank showed today.

Steelmaking reached the highest rate in more than a year during the first weeks of November, evidencing greater demand for new cars than was anticipated. Production tapered off in the week ended Nov. 26, but this was regarded as not unusual after a long period of increased operations.

Improvement in other industry failed to meet the pace set by steel, and as a result employment remained below the level existing a year ago.

Automobile assemblies receded after a sharp mid-November rise but were well ahead of 1937 production. The rise bolstered operations of other industries.

Brightening the outlook with iron and steel were continued heavy consumption of rubber.

A gain of four per cent in rubber consumption for October, as compared with consumption in October, 1937, was the first increase over a corresponding month of a previous year since May, 1937.

Books For Children

• • •

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

If you still haven't quite decided on what you want to give your growing niece or the 10-year-old across the street for Christmas consider the book suggestions for the 9-to-11-year-olds advanced by the Public library.

One of the most outstanding books for children, and about children is "The Far-Distant Oxus" by Katharine Hull and Pamela Whitlock. "Dancing Tom" by Elizabeth Coatsworth is the story of pioneer homesteading along the Mississippi.

The story of a small boy in Northern Michigan is told by Marguerite de Angeli in "Copper-Toed Boots." "Thimble Summer" by Elizabeth Enright is a delightful farm story.

Some other suggestions for the Christmas list are "Pedro's Coconut Skates" by Esther Wood; "The Hobbit" by J. R. R. Tolkien; "The Cottage at Bantry Bay" by Hilda Van Stockum; "Ann of Bar Ton Ranch" by Elizabeth Stevens; "Benjie's Hat" by Mabel Leigh Hunt; and "We Bright O'Toole" by Ruth Holberg.

MOUNTAIN FOLK SEE HARD WINTER

Fight Deepest Snow In 30 Years Near Walla Walla.

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—(INS)—Blue Mountain folks are preparing for a tough winter.

Fred Hertzer hiked out from his mountain homestead for supplies and made an appeal to county commissioners for equipment to open roads into the district already blocked with snow.

"More snow than I've ever seen at this season in the 30 years I've been at Lewis Peak," Hertzer said. "It's two feet deep on the level and in places the drifts are 10 feet deep. A lot of folks didn't figure on such early and heavy snow and need to get supplies."

Even the bears were caught out of hibernation when the first snow fell.

WILLS MILLIONS

Mackay, Postal Head, Leaves Estate of $2,050,000.

MINEOLA, N. Y.—(U.P.)—The will of the late Clarence H. Mackay filed in Surrogate's court bequeathed $2,050,000 to his widow and divided the rest of his estate among Mrs. Ellin Mackay Berlin, wife of Songwriter Irving Berlin, and two other children.

Extent of the estate was not indicated in the will.

Mackay, chairman of the Board of Postal Telegraph and Cable company when he died here Nov. 12, left to Mrs. Mackay his New York home and all its equipment with the exception of art treasures he bequeathed to Mrs. Berlin, his son, John, and Katherine, all children of his first wife.

Mansfield Lady Tells How Vendol Relieved Backache

Suffered a long time, tried most everything recommended, but got no better. Now declares this splendid Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine is wonderful.

MRS. IDA MYERS

"I have been troubled with constipation all my life, and this condition affected me in many ways," sail Mrs. Ida Myers, who resides at 136 W. First St., Mansfield, to the Vendol Man in the Central Drug Store recently.

"I suffered terribly from pains in my back and side, and had almost given up hope of ever finding relief. My limbs ached me too, and I was so nervous the least little thing upset me. My sleep was broken so much during the night that when it came time to get up I felt so tired and sluggish as though I hadn't been to bed at all.

"My stomach often became upset and after eating, the food would turn sour and nauseated me. Gas would bloat me up so that it frequently caused palpitation. There was hardly a day I didn't have a headache or feel bilious.

"Vendol and the little laxative tablets lost no time in relieving constipation and also acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys, then I began to improve steadily day by day. My rest is never disturbed any more at night and I sleep the night through. Those pains in my back have been greatly relieved and are almost gone. My appetite has picked up and now I am getting real benefit from my meals since my stomach doesn't become upset. I feel stronger and more energetic, nerves have calmed down wonderfully, and I haven't had a headache or dizzy feeling since I began taking this splendid medicine. I can never thank Vendol enough for what it has done for me."

Give this great Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine a chance to help you, too. Visit the Vendol Man at the Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., tell him your troubles, and let him explain just what Vendol will do for you.

LIGHT SELLING CONTINUES TO HANDICAP MART

Market Analysts Find Note of Cheer in Weed-End Trade Reviews.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market displayed a moderately lower trend today as light profit taking continued a handicap.

Inclined to retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Glenn Martin, General Motors, Anaconda, American Smelting, Santa Fe and N. Y. Central.

Bonds and commodities were slightly mixed. Foreign securities markets were relatively steady.

Market analysts found a note of cheer in week-end trade reviews.

Dun & Bradstreet said retail spending in the principal centers of distribution, spurred by a Christmas shopping rush, jumped 10 to 30 per cent over last year. Comparisons of dollar aggregates with a year ago narrowed the decline to 1 to 4 per cent.

Not so pleasing was a sharp drop in commercial loans of federal reserve member banks for the week ended Dec. 14.

Sales ranged close to previous quotations on most of the major commodities. California Navel orange prices tightened slightly. Most sales ranged around $3.25-3.50 for standard crates. Some few sales of small sizes went as low as $3.00. Florida peppers sold approximately 50c per crate under previous quotations. Fancy stock sold around $3.00 and choice around $2.25 for 1½-bushel crates. Florida round stringless green beans sold higher. Most sales of fresh stock moved around $1.75-2.00 per bushel with some few holdover going at $1.50.

Truck receipts at the farmers' market and at the commission house were quite light. The only commodity that fluctuated in price was spinach which sold slightly higher on best quality. Prices ranged from 50-75c per bushel.

No changes were reported in the prices of butter, eggs, dressed and live poultry.

TELLS WOMEN HOW TO MAKE MOST OF LIFE

Author Offers Suggestions in 'Your Life as a Woman,' Library Addition.

Non-fiction selections top the list of new books at the Mansfield Public library this week with "Your Life as a Woman (and How to make the Most of It)" heading the group. This book by Margaret Green Devereux offers many practical suggestions on how a woman may realize the fullest happiness, giving hints on relations with members of her family, her own personality and the importance of self-understanding.

Humorous, personal and profound are the three adjectives which best describe "The Education of an American" by Mark Sullivan. "Heroes of Thought" by John Middleton Murray is the brilliant study of the 12 men whose ideas have freed the world of its mental shackles, and "Capitalism In Crisis" by James Harvey Rogers, is, as the title implies, a book about the economic system.

Variety on Non-Fiction.

Other non-fiction selections include "Philosopher's Holiday" by Edman; "Character, Growth, Education," Kunkel; "Co-operation: An American Way," Daniels; "Major League Baseball," Allen; "It's an Art," Woodward; "Romance of Textiles," Lewis; "Mary Thomas' Knitting Book"; "Our Amazing Earth," Fenton; "Lace Book," Moore; "Burners of Men," Griaule; "Caspar Collins," Spring; "American Memory," Sheehan; and "Hundred Years of Music," Abraham.

In the fiction class "Spella Ho" by Herbert Ernest Bates is one of the new choices, telling the story of the rise of a strong man, of his power over men and women, and of the country house, Spella Ho. "To Remember at Midnight" by Michael Foster, author of "American Dream," is a novel of the stage.

Helen Ashton has written "William and Dorothy," building Dorothy Wordsworth into a heroine, and giving an eloquent picture of English life and literary circles. Other fiction includes "Auld Sinner" by Harper; 'Single Hound," Sarton; "Elizabethan Tales," edited by O'Brien; "What's In It for Me?" Weidman; "Requiem for Idols," Lofts; "Though Young," Barret; "Wild Goose Chase," Warner; "Fatherland Farewell!" Larsson and "Dark Command," by Burnett.

PREXY SPEAKS

Dr. Anspach Addresses WPA Instructors Here.

Dr. Charles L. Anspach, president of Ashland college, was to be the principal speaker at a conference of WPA adult education instructors in the Sixth district this afternoon at the Mansfield Y. W. C. A.

He is scheduled to speak at 2:15 p. m., addressing about 50 WPA instructors and officials from five counties in north central Ohio.

Others who are expected to address the session include Miss Mary Jacobs, C. I. Landis, and John G. Olmstead, Columbus, representing the district and state offices of the WPA adult education program.

Counties in the Sixth district are Richland, Knox, Delaware, Morrow, and Licking.

EXTENDS HOURS

Auditor's Office to Open Saturday Afternoon for Dog Tag Sale.

The county auditor's office in the courthouse will be open until 4 p. m. Saturday for the convenience of purchasers of dog tags, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe announced today.

Sales of tags had passed the 500 mark today, Wolfe said, but more than 5,000 dogs in the county require tags. The price is $1 for males and $3 for females.

Tags are sold in Shelby by George Armstrong at the Shelby Automobile club and in Plymouth by David Bachrach.

EAGLES RAID TURKEYS

PAYSON, Ariz.—(LE)—To some the American eagle is a noble bird, but to Mrs. Will Cohea it is no better than a vulture. Eagles intrude upon Mrs. Cohea's large turkey flock even more than do coyotes, swooping down swiftly to seize turkeys before there is time to stop them with either gun or dog.

LIFE SENTENCE

Woman Pleads Guilty to Shooting Common-Law Husband.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Interrupting her trial for first-degree murder shortly before it was to have gone to the jury, Mrs. Jewel Sires, 37, entered a plea of guilty to second-degree murder in the shooting of her common-law husband, Joseph Schudy.

Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Lausche sentenced her to life imprisonment in the women's reformatory at Marysville.

VIEWS AT ODDS ON EAST COAST FLEET STATUS

Squadron to Be Much Larger Than Was First Planned, Observers Say.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Creation of the new Atlantic squadron, giving the United States its first unified naval force in the Atlantic since shortly after the World war, has resulted in widespread speculation among observers here as to the permanence of the "fleet."

Naval officers contend the new force was formed purely for "tactical and administrative" purposes, and assert it probably will be disbanded at the conclusion of the 1939 naval maneuvers, scheduled to be held on the Atlantic side beginning late in January and lasting until about the middle of March.

Many observers, however, have felt the maneuvers simply have provided the navy with a convenient reason for creating the force without causing too much furore.

Decision Came With Crisis.

It is not known, of course, exactly when the navy high command decided to place a squadron in the Atlantic, but it was regarded as particularly significant by some observers that the announcement was made when the European situation was highly unsettled.

The squadron as originally announced consisted of seven destroyers and seven cruisers. Later three cruisers which were ordered from the west to the east coast during the height of the European crisis, presumably to be available to evacuate American nationals, were added to the squadron, although no official announcement of the move was made.

Shortly afterward, it was learned the entire training detachment, consisting of about 20 warships, would be consolidated with the new unit to make a force on the east coast of around 40 vessels. This includes several new vessels that have been added from time to time. Other additions are contemplated, it is reported.

Not Designated as Fleet.

Naval officials insist the squadron is in no sense a fleet. They point out that of the four battleships, two are over age and one is demilitarized.

Nevertheless, some observers contend that even if the present squadron is not a particularly strong unit in itself, it could serve as a basis and contemplated permanent force in the Atlantic.

A staff organization for the expanded squadron has been created. Chief of staff is Capt. Allan S. Farquhar, who was assistant to the chief of naval intelligence.

When announcement of the formation of the original 14-vessel squadron was made, some quarters immediately criticized the move, contending it was in violation of one of the first rules of naval strategy—that is, that the fleet must not be divided. Navy men countered with the assertion that the new force had not weakened the fleet and that both the battle force and scouting force were intact. The new squadron, they pointed out, was composed principally of new construction.

QUEENIE'S LEGS AND EYES ARE SUMPIN' DESPITE HER 3 TONS

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD — Her legs—oh my!—are more statuesque than Dietrich's.

Her eyelashes are darker and longer than Connie Bennett's—and more genuine.

Her skin is rare to the touch. Her voice is like a trumpet call to arms.

And what if she does weigh 6,500 pounds, no less? Queenie, the elephant, is an actress down to the last ounce.

Three and a quarter tons of charm, seven-feet six-inches of curves, she carried on today the artistic tradition of stars like Jiggs, the chimpanzee; Slicker, the seal, and Skippy, the wire-haired pup.

You can't minimize Queenie. She is the first elephant in Hollywood history to have the No. 1 role in a non-jungle movie.

The name of this production is "It's Spring Again," but it's adapted from a novel called "Zenobia's Infidelity."

It has a cast including Oliver (Babe) Hardy, Harry Langdon, Billie Burke and Alice Brady, but Queenie as Zenobia, they admit, sticks out head and shoulders above them all.

As the property of Langdon, a medicine man known as Prof. J. Thorndyke McCrackle, Queenie conceives an undying adoration for Hardy, a Mississippi county doctor, when he straightens out a knot in her aching tail.

First, however, the doctor applies a stethoscope to the general area of her heart. "What do you hear?" asks the professor. "Nothing," says Hardy, "except a 21-gun salute."

Queenie loves Hardy so deeply and follows him to such lengths that Langdon files suit for alienation of affections. There is a courtroom scene with Queenie barred from the witness stand. And there's an ending, but we can't tell you what it is yet.

This isn't Queenie's first picture. She is 26 years old, a circus graduate, and she debuted in films three seasons ago with Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in "O'Shaughnessey's Boy." It was her toughest bit. She carried a tiger on her back.

This year she's worked in "I'd Give a Million," "Boy Meets Girl," and "Gunga Din," the last being a second-fiddle part to that elephantine veteran, Anna May.

COLORED CANARY?

Ornithologist Tries to Make Them Red, White and Blue.

KALAMA, Wash. — (INS) — If Armistead Carter is successful in his experiments, the familiar yellow singing canary will be replaced by a red, white and blue bird. Carter, a well-known ornithologist, has been experimenting with canaries through breeding for many years, and believes he is well on the road to produce a real American canary with red, white and blue feathers.

EXPLAINS LAW

C. of C. Official Discusses Wage, Hour Act Tonight.

Fifty Richland county businessmen are expected to attend a clinic on the new wage and hour law to be conducted here tonight by Frank P. Ward, director of the industrial relations department of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

Ward, a recognized authority on wage hour legislation and the National Labor Relations act of 1935, will discuss the new law in an effort to clarify certain regulations which have caused considerable confusion among employers, Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Mansfield C. of C., said. Ward will answer questions relative to the law following his discussion.

The clinic will be held in the chamber's assembly rooms on the fifth floor of the Farmers Bank building beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Anniversary of the Bill of Rights.

AFTER the original Constitution of the United States was adopted, in 1787, the point was almost immediately raised that this instrument was not sufficiently explicit as to individual and state rights.

The result was that the First congress, at its opening session, considered and adopted ten amendments to the Constitution, which were ratified by the states and became effective 147 years ago this week.

These ten amendments, which have ever since been known as "the Bill of Rights," are stated in simple language and set forth the very essence of the individual liberties which distinguish a democracy from any other form of government.

If there are those in this country whose education is so meager that they cannot understand the meaning of the Constitution as a whole, there should at least be a concentration of effort to make every adult and school child familiar with the Bill of Rights, so that they will realize the advantages of living in a country in which the rights of individuals and minority groups are so securely guarded.

The Bill of Rights is by all odds the most vital section of that great document of human freedom. Herein are set forth the tenets of democracy in firm, clear terms—the right to worship as one desires; the rights of free speech and free press; the right to petition the government for redress of grievances; the right of trial by jury—and a number of others without which human freedom is an empty term.

Whenever any of these rights are weakened, however little, there is danger—for it is by gradual usurpation of individual and minority rights that dictatorships are eventually established.

There has never been a time in history when it was more important than now for free people to again appraise and reaffirm the great principles laid down by the founding fathers in the Bill of Rights.

Appreciation Accompanies Bonus.

ASIDE from the actual money involved in distribution of more than $54,000 in bonuses to employes of the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company, the attitude of management toward employes, as expressed by George W. Stephens, president and general manager, deserves thought.

"The officers and directors of the company wish to express their appreciation for the co-operation and loyalty our employes have shown throughout the year, and again recognize this fine spirit by paying a cash bonus to all employes."

But there is more to the operation of an industry than paying salaries, wages and bonuses to employes:

"The Mansfield Tire & Rubber company has been quite fortunate in securing sufficient business to give all of our workers full time employment during the past several months . . .," said Mr. Stephens in the letter which accompanied bonus checks.

The tasks of management involve not only production but also have to do with finding increasing markets for the tires that are produced, in keen competition with other makes of tires.

Then there is also the need to provide additional plant facilities, as business grows, so that more men can be employed and more tires made.

Without buildings and necessary mechanical equipment, and without efficient management, there could be none of the opportunities for employment that are now offered in this and other industries.

But, on the other hand, plant, equipment and management would be equally impotent without the employes, upon each of whom rests responsibility to do some particular kind of necessary work in a careful and efficient way.

So it comes about that, all working together, the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company exemplifies the happy outcome of a unified effort of management and employes to carry on an industrial operation without friction, and to the best interests of all concerned.

The Carols of Christmas.

CHOIRS are practicing the Christmas carols which will ring through the churches on that holy day. The first sounds Christmas morning in many neighborhoods are the sweet voices in the starlight, telling us that Christ is born in Bethlehem.

The custom is said to have started in ancient religious plays, when carol singers were sent out to entertain the people between the acts.

So the melody of the carol singers is like some old voice echoing down the ages. Some of these old tunes were sung through the halls of Europe, long before America was discovered, or before printed words were placed on any book page. When such a strain lives on while ages pass, some vital truth must lie behind it.

Music and Tolerance.

MUSIC is international in character, according to a bit of artistic interpretation recently provided in the Rotarian Magazine by Edward Johnson, manager of the Metropolitan Opera.

It is to the credit and distinction of American music lovers that this broad-minded viewpoint prevails within the United States. When, as in some quarters, intolerance invades the realm of art, cultural retrogression is inevitable.

Without the slightest discrimination or bias, the opera-goers of this country flock to all types of masterpiece. Their attitude is the sort of thing that promotes good will and that averts the deadly spread of nationalistic bigotry.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Neatest trick of the week is performed by the postoffice department in enforcing its laws against obscene publications and fraudulent advertising.

The department conducts a perpetual warfare against the lewd and lascivious literature which dribbles into the mail. It recently banned from the mail a whole issue of a magazine which contained reminiscences of a west coast harlot.

Nevertheless the trade in obscene literature and pictures is a thriving one and at times boldly advertises its wares in magazines. That puts the postoffice department on guard on another front. Many of these advertisements are written to lead the prospect into believing that if he will send in 25 cents or a dollar he will receive a book of lascivious stories and pictures.

* * *

Witnesses Reluctant.

BUT when the order is delivered it is found to be nothing more than a comic cartoon pamphlet such as can be bought from the corner drug store to amuse the kiddies on a stormy night. The postoffice prosecutes anyway on the grounds that the article advertised was not naughty, as advertised, but clean.

That way the department gets them going and coming. If the stuff is naughty it is illegal, and if it is not naughty it is fraudulently advertised.

However, the department has to dig up much of its own evidence on the fraudulent advertising business. Practically never does a person protest that he ordered an obscene book, expected to get an obscene book, and was not to be satisfied with a pocketful of funnypapers.

Menace of Drunken Drivers.

One factor in the whole death dealing situation of automobile driving has not improved. That is the human nature behind the steering wheels. It is time the hand of the law descended more certainly and more drastically upon the type of driver who takes no thought of others.

Reckless drivers and drinking drivers have been getting off far too easily. They are the real death menace in traffic today. Ohio's laws dealing with these offenders need a decided revision in the direction of safety and civilization.

Loss of driving rights and the loss of use of a car are dreaded and effective penalties if they are certain. It is too easy to evade such sentences in Ohio today.

Drinking resorts can still dump automobile drivers into their machines in any stage of intoxication and be in no danger of loss of their licenses. Licenses should be hard to get and hard to keep. —Toledo Blade.

CHECKING HIS LIST

Roosevelt Critics Always at Bat

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Every time President Roosevelt makes a speech all the anti-New Dealers remark that while his talk was o. k. in its main purport, it consisted exclusively of generalities—they indorse his objectives, as they say, but complain that he fails to suggest any definite plans for arriving at them.

Such has been the nature of much of the comment concerning his recent Chapel Hill address. Most folk expected him to pan Europe's dictatorships on that occasion. He didn't do it. If he had, his critics probably would have pointed out that overseas conditions are none of our business. Since he didn't, their account is that his utterances were too vague to amount to anything.

Now, personally, I though that his Chapel Hill argument was pretty concrete.

The nub of it was that, as the world's "most powerful democracy," our best bet is to make such a success of ourselves that the rest of the world will want to imitate us—that our mission is to set a good example.

Implied Condemnation.

I call this sound reasoning. It was adroitly expressed too. It certainly impliedd a condemnation of dictatorship also; the plain inference was that dictator-ridden peoples NEED to have a good example shown to them. Maybe it likewise was a slap at weak-kneed democracies, which have been permitting totalitarian regimes to make monkeys out of them lately.

Yet it wasn't so worded as to give fault-finders justification for claiming that "F. D." was undertaking to rake other countries over his oratorical coals. In fact, it's hard to see why that speech shouldn't get by even Berlin's or Rome's or Tokyo's censorships. Nevertheless the Nazis, the Fascists and the Japanese will be middling dense if they miss the presidential innuendo.

Incidentally, it wasn't necessary for President Roosevelt to warn the dictators to keep out of Uncle Sam's sphere of influence.

Those chaps don't have to be reminded of our agitation for army, navy and aviation upbuilding, of our Pan-American conference at Lima or of our general disgust at their racial and religious persecutions. They're fully informed as to these Yankee tendencies already. Rubbing the idea in would be superfluous.

Parenthetically:

It's deplorable that we have to make these preparations. They're an unadulterated waste of energy—utterly uneconomic. Besides, a strongly armed nation always has a temptation to use its armament, sometimes unnecessarily. War means promotion for warriors. It gets so that it's popular. Furthermore, the maintenance of preparedness occasionally becomes so expensive that it seems cheaper to go ahead and fight it out than to go on STAYING prepared.

Still, what's a peace-loving country to do?—with a lot of Hitlers, Mussolinis and Mikados in the offing? Wait until they invade Latin America?—with no means of stopping them? Or preserve so formidable a set-up that the buccaneers won't dare to risk a showdown? As 100 per cent a pasifist as Representative Louis Ludlow of Indiana proclaims himself favorable to adequate defense against eventualities.

The historic dope is that a Hitler or a Mussolini ultimately overdoes himself and is wiped off the map. Sure enough, but a war that he's started usually is what wipes him off. The Democrats who erase him have got to worry through the war in the first place.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

A Warning to Face Right.

By ERIK M. ERIKSSON
Professor of History, University of Southern California.

As Congress is scheduled to meet within a few weeks this appears to be an appropriate time to review the results of the November elections with a view to discovering what bearing they may have upon the future activities of the federal government.

Though a month has now passed since the people registered their choices at the polls, many have hardly recovered from their amazement at the results. Neither the most optimistic conservatives nor the most pessimistic New Dealers expected such large gains for the former. Usually in an off-year election, the party out of power makes substantial gains. Of course, this did not happen in 1934, but this was the exception which proves the rule. The 1938 elections, however, produced such gains for the "outs" that they cannot be explained as merely the result of a normal reaction against the party in power.

The real significance of the elections is that the country has become tired of experimentation which has failed to solve the pressing economic problems resulting from the great depression. In no sense were the election results victories for extreme conservatism or reaction. They were, nevertheless, a warning to the administration to face the right instead of pursuing a course of radical reform under the guise of liberalism.

Apparently, the majority of the people are willing to support a program that is truly liberal—a middle of the road program—but they are losing patience with those administration leaders who have been seeking to force the nation far to the left. Most Americans are far more desirous of economic recovery than they are of being made over in accordance with a pattern devised by misnamed liberals who have dominated the scene in the national capital.

To interpret the election results as a repudiation of the president is hardly warranted. His popularity has declined but it is obvious that the majority of the people are still in favor of him personally. But it is also obvious that the majority wish him to veer to the right. No other reasonable interpretation can be made of the election statistics which show that, outside of the Solid South, the Republicans polled more votes than did the Democrats. This is a reasonable view to take of the facts that the Republicans gained over eighty seats in the house of representatives, that they gained eight senators and that, in addition, they captured fourteen state governorships while losing only three.

By these gains the Republicans have re-established themselves as a potent factor in politics. This does not mean that they will be able to force the repeal of obnoxious New Deal measures. The New Dealers, aided by the power of the president to veto bills which he does not like, will be strong enough to prevent their program from being undone. By working with the independent Democrats, who will be numerous in the seventy-sixth congress, the Republicans can hope, at best, to prevent more radical reforms from being approved by the national legislature.

In order to prevent two years of dead-lock, a spirit of compromise will be needed in Washington. The period of "must" legislation and "rubber stamp" members of congress is in the past. Congress promises once more to become a deliberative body, performing its constitutional function of determining the policies of the national government instead of delegating its powers to the chief executive.

As a reaction to the election results and as an indication of the general belief that the federal government will be forced to face to the right have been the evidences of economic recovery during recent weeks. A continuation of the trends will help ease the unemployment problem which should make unneccessary such large expenditures as in the past.

In any case the new congress is not likely to grant to the president any more blank checks for relief purposes. Furthermore, in all probability, a determined effort will be made to take the WPA out of politics. All in all, the next few months will be an interesting period.

Ohio Anecdotes

Dixie Had to Be Written.

Dan Emmett, playwright, actor and songwriter, was interviewed shortly before his death in 1904 at his home just outside Mt. Vernon. The newspaperman inquired of Emmett just how that old plantation melody—Dixie—came to be written.

The aged actor replied, "Like most everything else I ever did, it was written because it had to be done. One Saturday night," he went on, "in the year 1839, as I was leaving Bryant's theater, where I was then playing, Bryant called, 'I want a walk around for Monday Dan'."

The next day it rained and I stayed indoors. At first when I went at the song I couldn't get anything but a line—'I wish I was in Dixie'—kept repeating itself in my mind, and I finally took it for my start. The rest wasn't long in coming."

Listen, World!

What Is a "Real American"?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHOULD we hang a "no trespassing" sign on the Goddess of Liberty?

Deny employment to all but the native born?

You'd be surprised to know how many seemingly friendly folks are advocating such drastic measures these days! The Old World in flames . . . hundreds of thousands robbed of homes and property, fleeing for their very lives . . .

Should America be a haven for the oppressed, as it was 200 years ago?

"NO!" cry these super-patriots . . . who are all for changing this nation from a FREE-FOR-ALL DEMOCRACY to a LIMITED AUTOCRACY! Here, for example, comes a typical letter from Miss Vivian Rodgers of San Antonio, Texas, who says,

"My blood boils when I see first-rate Young Americans unemployed and foreigners or foreign-born naturalized citizens holding the positions they should have." and who winds up:

"I AM AN AMERICAN AND I BELIEVE IN AMERICANS!"

I'm an American, too, Vivian—and as loyal a one as breathes. I, too, have taken up cudgels against supporting mischievous alien parasites at the expense of stout-hearted native stock. But I cannot applaud your line of reasoning and I do NOT believe it is any credit to American intelligence.

Let's take your phrase—"AMERICA FOR AMERICANS" . . . just where would that land us if literally enforced? In our graves, my dear, with our bloody scalps dangling at the belts of the only REAL Americans—our red-skinned predecessors whose territory we usurped!

For, if we're going to get choosey about Family Trees, we Yanks must frankly admit that we HAVEN'T ANY! We're just a bunch of high-handed, hard-hittin' Movers-In — and nothing else but! Which suits me and several million other squatters perfectly dandy, but would never get by in any court of law. And don't kid yourself it would, lady!

There is no "pure American breed and blood." "E PLURIBUS UNUM" — "One out of many" — that's our national motto and motive. Not ONE BLOOD . . . but ONE BLEND OUT OF MANY BLOODS . . . ONE PEOPLE, WELDED OUT OF MANY PEOPLE. ONE BREED, COMBINING THE VARIED TALENTS AND POWERS OF MANY BREEDS . . . that's incomparably more powerful and potent than any one, isolated strain.

Nor is this blending and welding process finished. It is always continuing . . . through the influx of new force and faith . . . always combining toward a greater, nobler product. Bar our Industry and Culture to any but "100 per cent Americans?" There could be no surer sign of stupid infantilism! For the simple truth is—WE "ONE HUNDRED PER CENT AMERICANS" ARE STILL PITIFULLY SHORT ON MANY ESSENTIALS. Genius is where you find it . . . and you can't always find it in Yankeeland. Instead of being choosey about talent, we should be gosh-awful grateful for the charm, beauty and highly developed intelligence which we borrow from other lands.

It is true we have foreign grafters . . . alien morons. But believe me, they have nothing whatever on our home-born chiselers, loafers, traitors and dim wits! Save America for "real Americans"? By all means! BUT LET'S MAKE A FEW FIRST!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It isn't very nice to kick a man when he is down, and it isn't very fair to second-guess him after he guesses first and fails. But when you give up an evening to the theater and find there a play so obviously inadequate that only the most naive person could see anything to it, it makes you wonder what those producers are thinking of when they risk their reputations and their angels' bankrolls on plays that belong in the suburban theater class.

Last week three dramas came to Broadway, involving I imagine an expenditure of $100,000. One of them lasted only two performances. The second did better. It lasted five performances. The third ran eight days before folding.

Yet before the first act curtain was rung down you could tell that here was just a not of nothing. The dialog didn't sound like people talking. The action was stagy and obviously inexpert. The scenery was beautiful and costly and tragic, because it was wasted on dramas that caricatured the word entertainment.

* * *

THESE sad losses take place every day, and the pity of it is that most of them could be averted. I am not posing as one whose judgment is infallible, but I certainly could have told by simply glancing at the script that none of these plays in question had the ghost of a chance.

And that's what makes it so incredible. All of these dramas were produced by men with reputations for sound theatrical judgment. They have had successes before. But apparently they think that what goes big in 1924 will also go big in 1938.

I mean by this talk, like actors or composers, they become "typed" They can't forget that once they were known as "little Napoleons" of Broadway. They think they can take a cheap play, put a rose in its hair, and sell to a public whose tasters and judgment have kept pace with the times, which is more than may be said for the taste and the judgment of some of the producers whose names are interwoven in the theater's history.

* * *

IF YOU know anything about the theater and about play-making, you can read a script and have a pretty clear idea whether it has a chance to succeed or not. That is indisputable, regardless of what you hear about the fickle fancy of the public.

To succeed, a play must have people, not just actors. And those people must speak naturally and honestly and extemporaneously, not just recite lines. And the play must have an objective. Its characters must have something to say and somewhere to go.

Sex in red letters isn't enough. Sex isn't even necessary, as witness some of the greatest modern hits—"Abe Lincoln in Illinois" for one, which is as sexless as a can of lard.

You don't have to slap an audience in the face with an eight-column murder. You don't have to fill the air with epithets to attract attention. You simply have to be natural and purposeful and know where you are going.

So far this season about 40 plays have been produced and less than half of them survive. And of the survivors, half of them are barely getting by. What the answer is I can't tell. Maybe it is simply a dearth of good writing.

A Farmer's Diary

Weaning the Calf.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE stock buyer had a special order for a high test milch cow, and money was not the first consideration.

"What'll you take for that Guernsey?" he asked an active, young farmer friend of mine. "If you price her right, I'll buy her."

"She's the best one I have—goes up to a test of 5½. My wife wants me to keep her," said the farmer, slowly.

"Don't you have a price?" The buyer ran his broad hand over the finely formed back and flank. "How much milk?"

"Four gallons a day," answered the farmer, pridefully. "It's four weeks today she dropped her calf. He's a beauty, too. I'll take a cool $200, but I'm not anxious, at that."

"Oh, you think too well of your stock," said the other, quickly. "I can get one just as good down the road. I'll give you $150, though, and take her."

"Nothing doing," said my friend, and he looked at me, with a twinkle in his eye.

The buyer got into his car, then got out again, and came back. He accused the farmer of robbing him, but wrote out a check for $200. Then they loaded the cow, fretting heavily for her calf, upon the high-racked trailer.

That night the dairyman milked one cow earlier than the rest and went to feed the orphan. "Weaning a fretting youngster like this one is ticklish business," he said, as he poured the steaming, frothy milk into another pail and tried to get the calf to smell the contents. But the little fellow would not drink and bawled until the tears rolled down his cheeks.

Finally the farmer took the stubborn head between his knees and with both hands, doused the reluctant nose into the pail.

"I'll try giving it my finger," he said. Soothed, the little creature drank. My friend looked up triumphantly, and grinned. At that instant, the calf lunged forward, tipping the bucket and spilling part of the contents. Recaptured, the same maneuvers were repeated, but this time, up popped the calf's head and hit his owner squarely on the chin. It was a heavy blow, and I was concerned. I bit my own tongue nearly off, once, in this same way.

The rash of anger rose across the dairyman's face, but without a word, he took the pail in hand and walked away. It was a quiet lesson in self control. I thought how well that little calf was blessed with such a good master.

PROBLEMS FACE TURKEY'S NEW DICTATOR RULER

Inono, Chosen by Ataturk as His Successor, Wins Backing From His People.

BACKGROUND

What happens to a totalitarian state when its dictator dies? That question has puzzled thousands during the past decade. The death of Kamal Ataturk, president-dictator of Turkey, and the election of his old pal as successor may provide an answer. The following story describes this successor to a dictator and tells what he's up against.

ANKARA, Turkey —(AP)— Now that General Ismet Inonu is in the chair at Ankara, the world is inquiring, not without skepticism, whether Turkey's second president will be able to continue as he has pledged to do in the direction pointed by its first.

Possessed of a quiet, intellectual, ironic demeanor, Inonu lacks —or at least he has never demonstrated—the domineering, demonic, ruthless qualities of his dead chief. But he has a name as an organizer and administrator. He well knows the hazards of public life. Twice, he has escaped assassination.

His name stirs important memories in the Turks for it comes from a battle the general won in the Anatolian locality of Inonu. It was one of the pivotal battles in the bitter Graeco-Turkish war of 1919-22 which preceded Ataturk's founding of a new Turkey.

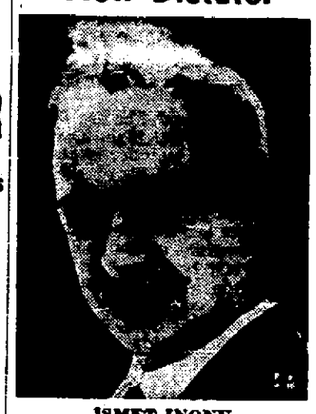
Kamal Ataturk gave Ismet Inonu this name. Now Inonu is in line for the name of Ataturk himself—for most everybody in Turkey believes that the slender little man taking command at a critical moment in the country's history will prove himself to be a second "Father of the Turks."

Big Jobs Ahead.

It is a staggering responsibility Ataturk has left his No. 2 man. There is the modernization of religious, political and social customs to be completed. There is a local political situation of near-volcanic possibilities which Ataturk kept from erupting at times only by the use of ruthless force. Most important, there is the problem of keeping from being flattened by the politico-economic juggernaut of Nazi Germany.

Those are enough to give any man pause. But Turkey thinks its deaf old warrior, although he differs in many ways from his chief, is the man best fitted for the job.

New Dictator



ISMET INONU

Ataturk thought so, too. That's why he called him in before he died and made up the friendship which was broken off a year ago.

The two had fought together in the World war. Inonu was chief of staff at Gallipoli when Ataturk kept the Allies from seizing the vital peninsula. Inonu also helped Ataturk drive out the invading Greeks in the war that followed the World war.

Then they continued shoulder to shoulder in the peacetime fight to regenerate the "sick man of Europe" as Turkey was called before they took hold of him.

Called to Death.

The general was Ataturk's premier and confidant until 1937. Then the long association suddenly terminated, presumably in a squabble over foreign policy.

The premier remained in the national assembly but except for that played the role of an ex-number 2 man. No one expected him to become No. 1—until the dictator took ill and sent for him. It was increasingly evident after that that Inonu was to inherit Ataturk's role.

He is the father of two young sons, one 10, the other seven. He and his wife are looked up to as model parents. In fact, she is held in such esteem the country once considered inaugurating a national mother's day in her honor.

Unlike Ataturk, he is a teetotaller but at official functions will lift a cup of champagne to the health of his guests. He can manage a sedate foxtrot when it is required. He loves horses and is an expert rider, speaks English, French, and understands German, prefers English-cut clothes and American administrative methods.

One of his hobbies is quizzing visiting Americans on their way of life and their country's latest achievements, particularly in scientific spheres.

SHOW WEST AT ITS WILDEST, AIM OF HOLLYWOOD FOR '39

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The dawn of a new film year is coming up in Hollywood to the thunder of six-shooters and the yip-yaps of cowboys—and the sighs of 800 glamour girls.

If the movies do nothing else in 1939, they will show the west at its wildest. It is a he-man's west with petticoats scarcer than gold nuggets.

In focusing the camera on great open spaces instead of night clubs and drawing rooms, the motion picture industry may be able to cure its boxoffice ills, but it already has created a serious economic problem for nearly a thousand young women known, technically, as "dress extras."

The era of screwball comedy and lavish musicals meant comparative prosperity to them. As Ritzy crowds at the theater, the ballroom or the cocktail party, they worked frequently. Those with the best wardrobes got the most calls, so all spent shrewdly for fashionable ensembles. It was worthwhile investing in clothes, they pointed out, because a "dress extra" could earn $16.50 a day.

Today they are dressed up with no place to go.

Currently, the big-money pictures smack of masculine doings. They include "Union Pacific," "Oklahoma Kid," "Dodge City," "Stage Coach," "Stand Up and Fight," and "Song of the West."

They are not to be confused with the small-time westerns which independent studios turn out on a bi-weekly schedule. Instead, they require big mob scenes as "atmosphere"—but it's mostly male.

The other day a report got around that Paramount had ordered hundreds of pounds of artificial hair to make up the cast of "Hotel Imperial."

There was a flutter of excitement among Hollywood's unemployed glamour ranks. "Hotel Imperial" had an exotic title and what girl couldn't envision herself as bewigged—at $16.50 per—in such a foreign drama?

Next day hopes fell.

The hair had been made into mustaches and beards for a pseudo Russian army.

Bee 'Lamguage' Discovered By Coast Professor

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Now we have talking bees—although they are unable to speak in a tone audible as even a whisper.

In fact, bees have always "talked," but the discovery was made only recently.

Credit for this startling revelation went to Dr. J. E. Eckert, assistant professor of entomology at the University of California college of agriculture.

"By their movements," the scientist said, "bees can direct other bees of the hive to the location of newly discovered sources of honey supply. This is a method of communication—a manner of talking. It is the bees' language."

CHAPTER 24

"Hi there, Towne. How's tricks?" He saw Bob then. "Hello all.

"Oh, so-so. How's yourself?"

"Pretty good. Just heading for church. Nice day."

"Church?"

"Yeah. Church. You know—church. Where they have singing, and preaching." T. J. Sanders could be sarcastic on occasions. "Big house. Organ. People. Everything. I guess you wouldn't know. They don't use 'em in football."

"Nerts." But Bob grinned at him. "You pretty intimate with 'em yourself?"

"Sure!"

"Hey, Sara Sue—this guy taking you to church?" Bob called.

"Yes, indeed! Sweet of him, isn't it? So thoughtful. Much better than—than running down cows with fenders. And such things."

"Aw say—can't you ever forget? I take you riding one time. I happen to nick one cow. Away back in prehistoric times. And you still hold it against me!"

* * *

They all laughed, and T. J. escorted Sara Sue away. Bob watched them, looking more cheerful than he felt. He hadn't been any too successful with his courtship of Sara Sue lately. Not that it was his fault. Football was at its peak. Rice was in the midst of a hard campaign. Coach Britt was missing no bets, so far as keeping his men conditioned, and Bob was determined to play fair.

* * *

Once or twice he had gotten to mooning so heavily about Sara Sue that it affected his nerves—and football is played on nerves by the way. But he and coach, and then he and Sara Sue, had had a couple of heart-to-heart talks which had straightened things out. Bob somehow felt that as soon as football season was over, and especially as soon as he got his sheepskin next June, he would wrap Sara Sue Davis up in a bag and take her home, his forever. Meanwhile, he was fretted by the wait.

And especially did he not like too much of T. J. Sanders. He had to be friends with Sanders, if possible. It meant a potential $1,000 if the football nerve and luck held out. But when somebody else goes to courting your girl, a man can stand only so much. He already had made an understanding with the energetic freshman. Maybe he really ought to take this Sanders and smack him around and—Bob sighed, got up and left the Davis cottage.

* * *

Sara Sue suspected some of Bob's unhappiness, and so tried to keep up cheery banter with him whenever she could. She went to church worrying about him a little.

"Swell football man, that Towne," Sanders conceded. "Well, there's the church, Sara Sue. You can hear the organ. Now this Dr. Ferguson—"

They parked and went inside. Just for mischief, Sara Sue would not let him sit her down near the back row of pews; she led him, behind an usher, right down to row three. She knew well that T. J. was doing some bluffing this morning, so she would just pour it on him plenty? He who had tricked her into three dates.

"Will you kneel with me?" she whispered, reverently.

Not all Presbyterians kneel and pray on entering church, but some do. Sara Sue did. But—for once in her Christian career, she had to force back a smile in this holy moment. She forced it, too. Took control of herself, forced the reverence that she truly felt, and whispered a short prayer. Nor did she neglect to ask God's blessing on the young man beside her.

Tactfully she did not look at him, however. Back in her seat, she opened a hymn book and shared it with him. "Sing, or I'll kick your shins," she whispered.

The organ boomed, and Sara Sue sang with the others. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow. Praise him all creatures here below—" She sang sweetly, not so loudly as she had sung the college songs a few hours before, but happily and earnestly. A pretty girl with a pretty voice. Dr. Ferguson in his pew noted her with approval. "—Praise Father, Son, and Ho-leee Gho-o-ost!"

She glanced at T. J. then. Manfully he had pitched into it, too. Singing.

"He's a good sport," Sara Sue told herself. "He's all right."

* * *

It is said that every man has his chance to be a hero. Some of us muff it and some of us don't. In emergency something foreign takes control of us, and we come to our senses an hour or two later. The matter thus is out of our hands.

Galveston beach is not dangerous. And yet—people sometimes drown in bathtubs. Thornton Holgate now remembered this latter fact; for no good reason it flashed into his mind. But just for an instant.

"Oh, I say—NO!"

He yelled his command at the mother.

The woman, clad in street clothing, even wearing a long coat, hysterically had raced into the water. She would have to go almost 200 yards before reaching her little daughter. She could wade most of that before calm water became neck deep, but meanwhile she was sure to be toppled by a breaker, a powerful, playful, slashing gulf wave. And she in that heavy autumn clothing!

"NO! NO! NO! Come back Mrs. —— COME BACK! You will drown!"

Thornton held out a hand as if in supplication. Peaches Pomeroy could only stare.

"WAIT!"

* * *

Still the mother did not heed him. She was obeying instinct, foolishly, but positively. Already past the knee depth, where the walking was hard, where the waves slapped rhythmically at her waistline, and where one was bound to throw her down any second.

"Oh-h-h-h-h-s!" Thornton Holgate groaned in sheer despair—and then sprang to action.

Surprisingly, he did not also run into the gulf waters. Peaches stared at him, incredulous, as he turned and dashed back toward the sea wall.

He skittered up stair steps three at a time, turned right and raced down the top of the wall. A hundred yards down beach, he had noted, was the dining-fishing pier, a house and platform built high—to sea wall height, in fact—on great pilings. The sea rolled and snorted and crashed under this pier constantly, and once every eight or ten years went on rampage and washed it all away. Meanwhile, though, it extended out to water that was deep enough for fishing, and formed a breezy promenade for diners who liked the sensation of going out over the sea.

Thornton hit the front door of the dining hall as a bull would have done.

In bathing trunks, and slinging water, he dashed through the place, upsetting one chair, striking a table and a waiter. This was early dinner hour now, and several people were present.

Someone shouted, but he ignored it. He tore through the far door and ran on down the heavy plank platform, in the open air again. Ten seconds more brought him to the end.

There he paused. For one thing, he seemed awfully high. The sea wall is 20 feet or more in places, and that distance above shallow water becomes dangerous for diving. But Thornton wasn't thinking of that—he was searching for any sign of the child, and in just a moment he saw her.

The little girl could swim, he saw at once, but she also was badly frightened now, tossed by the waves, and probably nearing exhaustion. Having run out the long pier, Thornton was now almost on a line with her, even though she was 50 yards away. Wisely he had reasoned that he could swim 50 yards laterally long before he could walk or swim 200 yards against the waves.

To get a slanting jump at the water, he backed up and ran the width of the pier, and dived.

The dive was graceful. Arms out, he speared the water. Hands struck, hard, on the bottom sand. Then his head struck, and this momentarily dazed him.

But he had anticipated this, and by sheer force of will came out of it. He gulped one great chest full of air, and struck out.

He could not see the girl now, but he had a geometric sense of the direction to follow. When he had gone 30 or 40 strokes, he paused, stood on tiptoe and—catching a wave—bounded as high up as possible, looking for her.

There she was! A flash of red bathing suit!

ARMY STUDIES TESTING RANGE IN SOUTHWEST

Area For Practice Fire Would Give Fort Bliss 600,000 Acres of Land.

(By United Press)

EL PASO, Tex.—The most destructive ordnance and bombs of modern warfare will be tried out in a vast "no man's land" in western Texas and eastern New Mexico if recommendations submitted to Washington are approved.

Plans for the enlargement of Fort Bliss by 600,000 acres have been submitted to the war department, it was revealed in recent conferences here between Major-Gen. Ben Lear and Rep. R. E. Thomason, D., Tex., ranking member of the house committee on military affairs.

The enlarged Fort Bliss would be utilized by the army as a great training center and a target range for artillery and bombing.

The Organ and Hueco mountains would form natural "backstops" for the target ranges and bombing activities, and the almost negligible population of the locality would eliminate the civilian safety hazard, advocates of the plan said.

Climate Important Factor.

They pointed out that the climate was suitable for year-around training, and that transportation, water facilities and variety of terrain would make the ground ideal for all types of defense practice.

The recommendations called for acquisition of 200,000 acres of land in Texas and 400,000 acres in New Mexico. Both principal tracts adjoin the present Fort Bliss reservation. Fort Bliss now is a calvalry post.

The land in Texas could be obtained for approximately $2,500,000, it was estimated. That needed in New Mexico is chiefly state-owned territory, or public domain.

Thomason and other representatives will meet army and federal civilian officials soon in a conference with New Mexican authorities regarding that area, it was said.

Vital Need Seen.

"With the growing importance of anti-aircraft defense, bombing, field artillery and small arms firing in modern warfare, such a vast training area somewhere in the country has become a requisite," Gen. Lear said.

Military experts said that only one other area in the nation—the Mojave Desert—offered the sparsity of population and variety of terrain necessary. But the intense heat of the area made it unsuitable for military training.

"In view of the talk of preparedness by President Roosevelt and the war department," Thomason said, "I think the time is opportune to plan such a training area as Gen. Lear recommends."

Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, Mayor M. A. Harlan of El Paso, and Rep John J. Dempsey of New Mexica have promised cooperation in support of the proposed reservation.

AUTO "VICTIM" DISAPPEARS

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(U.P.)—Miss Peggy Hennings reported to police that she struck a woman with her automobile but could not find the "victim" when she stopped a few feet away. She said a man who witnessed the accident told her to drive on—that the woman was a friend of his who didn't want any publicity.

FINDS WEAPON

Murder Suspect Leads Police to Where He Hid Gun.

FREMONT—(U.P.)—Sheriff H. L. Myers has announced the recovery of the sawed-off shotgun barrel which he said was used by Rex Bush, 19, Mentone, Ind., in the slaying of Deputy Neal Fowler of Clyde, Dec. 6.

Myers said his deputies took Bush, held under a first degree murder indictment in Sandusky county jail, to the outskirts of Perrysburg where the youth located the discarded barrel near U. S. highway No. 20.

The sheriff quoted Bush as saying he sawed off the gun to make it easier to handle. Bush is charged with stealing a car at Perrysburg. He will be arraigned in common pleas court probably here on the murder indictment.

MARKETS OFFER WIDE VARIETY OF PRODUCE AS HOLIDAYS NEAR

Lin Yutang who accuses Americans of lacking variety in their foods in "The Importance of Living" should take a look at the Mansfield markets which offer virtually everything under the sun to the week-end shopper. This week in addition to the several dozen varieties of fresh vegetables offered regularly, dandelion greens and leeks are back.

In case you wonder what to have for Sunday dinner look over this array. Dealers have avacados, endive, mushrooms, head and leaf lettuce as well as butter lettuce, radishes, brocolli, ascarole, spinach, kale, mustard greens, green, wax and lima beans, beets, brussel sprouts, artichokes, green and Bermuda onions, carrots, ainse, romaine, red and green peppers, parsley and celery roots, soup packages, celery, squash, and sweet and white potatoes.

Although oranges are just nearing their peak at this time of year, delicious grapefruit are flooding the market. Both the pink and white varieties are available from Texas, Florida and California. The stores also have kumquats, pears, all types of grapes—and, good news to melon lovers—honeydews.

Apples are still abundant, and lemons, limes, fresh pineapple, figs, dates, assorted nuts, and both red and yellow bananas are available.

DOBBIN STILL ON JOB

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Horses are still used for two per cent of all rural mail delivery, say figures from the California State Automobile association. This means about 700 carriers cling to the horse and buggy.

DOG STANDS BY

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—(INS)—A girl and a boy, aged eight and ten, respectively, were safely at home today, unharmed by a night in the woods because their faithful spaniel dog kept them warm.

The children told their father, Clem Craddock of Dorris, Cal., their dog slept between them and kept them warm during the night. They were lost when they wandered away from the family automobile while their father was hunting, and were not found until the next day.

COURT TO HEAR MOTIONS IN FOUR TAXPAYER SUITS

Rulings to Determine Whether Actions Against Estates Will Go to Trial.

Demurrers and motions in four taxpayer's suits which would require the owners and administrators of four large properties in the Mansfield area to show the amount of personal taxes paid on the properties from 1926 to 1930, are scheduled for hearing next Wednesday in common pleas court.

The court's ruling on the demurrers and motions will determine whether the cases will go to trial and whether attorneys for the plaintiff will have access to county and state tax books.

The suits were filed last May by Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield, as a taxpayer. In his actions he contended that under a state law which later was ruled unconstitutional, owners of the properties involved escaped payment of a part of the personal tax due on their holdings.

Defendants File Demurrers.

The defendants' demurrers contend that common pleas court has no jurisdiction over the cases and the suits were filed after the deadline for filing such actions.

The plaintiff's motions seek to gain access to county and state tax records to determine the amount of tax paid on the properties. The court several months ago granted a temporary injunction to restrain Hallabrin's counsel from examining the tax books.

Defendants named in the suits were J. A. Rigby, president of the Citizens National Bank and Trust company; Harry S. Black, president of the Farmers Savings and Trust company; Donald S. Black and others as executors of the estate of the late Frank Black, and the Citizens National Bank and Trust company as administrator of the estate of the late Burton Preston.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Treasurer John E. Kolb were made party defendants after amended petitions were filed later.

ROOMS OF STEEL

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—The new Municipal hospital and the Leech Farm hospital will be equipped with the first stainless steel operating rooms, it was revealed here by Dr. I. Hope Alexander, city health director.

The new wall covering is both germproof and economical, Dr. Alexander claims. The covering can be applied for a maximum of 50 cents a square foot.

LUTZ TO TALK FINANCES WITH SCHOOL HEADS

Representative Will Ask for Ideas Tomorrow on How to Save Foundation Plan.

Ralph C. Lutz, Lexington, Richland county representative to the general assembly, said today he had invited Mansfield and Richland county school officials to confer with him at 2 p. m. Saturday at the courthouse on proposals for liquidating the state school foundation deficit and placing the schools on a self-supporting basis.

"It will be an informal discussion from which I hope to obtain some ideas to present at the next session of the legislature," Lutz said.

No Word On Special Session.

He said he had not been informed of a proposed special session of the legislature this month, but understood Gov. Martin L. Davey would call one "if public sentiment warrants it." The regular session is scheduled for January.

The invitation to Saturday's meeting here went to superintendents, principals, school board members and teachers, who will be asked to express any opinions they may have pertaining to the state school problem, Lutz asserted.

Lutz, a Democrat, said he agreed with Governor-elect John W. Bricker that "the only way to meet the school problem is to economize."

He said he "got some good ideas" at a meeting with city and county school heads here four years ago.

Lutz was re-elected to the assembly for a third term at the November election.

GALION—Mrs. Joseph Wilcox of Galion has been called to Marion county by the death of her father, William H. Fiant, 68, who died Tuesday at his home in Richland township where he was a farmer.

Note Hints at Force If Nazis Fail to Give Assurances for Protection of Americans.

to Germany today followed Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's warning that British economic and financial power might triumph in any war between Great Britain and the Nazi reich.

It was learned on excellent authority that a proposal for the bank of England to advance credits to Germany in connection with an Anglo-German trade understanding was turned down by Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England.

The proposal was advanced by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, who is in London as Norman's guest.

Rejection of the idea took on added significance in view of Chamberlain's address yesterday before a luncheon audience in the house of commons. With London-Berlin relations still strained by Germany's boycott of his press association speech Tuesday night, Chamberlain said:

"We may take it that when German statesmen—I will not say the German people — reflect on the possible consequences of a conflict, if ever a conflict arises between our two countries, they will not only think of our armaments, but of our great financial resources which in a war of long duration might well prove the deciding factor."

Kennedy to Submit Jewish Refugee Plan to Roosevelt

U. S. ENVOY TO BRITAIN RIPS PERSECUTION

Ambassador Arrives in N. Y., Describes Jews' Plight in Germany 'Terrible.'

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Before heading for Washington to make direct report to President Roosevelt, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy today revealed he has brought back from London a workable plan for the prompt solution of Europe's refugee problem.

The United States ambassador to Great Britain also blasted the German persecution of Jews, asserting:

"I think it's terrible, the most terrible thing I ever heard of. And I will probably lose my job for saying that. You might also say that I am only sharing the sentiments of our president. Oh, how I would like to say a lot more!"

Says England Ready.

The smiling New Deal millionaire, after his arrival on the Queen Mary, disclosed that the world need worry no longer about land to provide a haven for persecution victims.

"England is ready to take care of that," Kennedy declared. "There is no doubt in my mind that she will come through with ample land for resettlement work, when the time comes."

What demands immediate action—and what he will take up with the president—is sufficient funds to transport the unwanted minorities from their present homes and set them up in new lands.

He was confident that other nations can be persuaded to cooperate in an international loan, particularly if the United States leads the way.

Without revealing detailed phases of his refugee plan, Kennedy declared there were only two other stumbling blocks to launching the program at once.

He said:

"First, some estimate must be made of the number of refugees to be taken care of. There are so many countries involved that right now it is impossible to proceed—because no one knows the full extent of help and amount of land needed.

"Secondly, there must be some inkling of the co-operation to be expected from Hitler, before any plan can be launched."

While the ambassador was careful to point out that all definite action in regard to refugee relief is up to the international commission now studying the problem, he added that he had been working closely with that body.

Strike of 130 On WPA Averted After Altercation

With A. H. Moellenkamp, county WPA engineer, Sheriff E. P. Long, and Deputy Glenn Freeman as arbiters, a threatened strike of 130 WPA workers in Weller township was averted yesterday after a foreman and a colored worker engaged in an altercation.

The trouble started when Willie Ferguson, colored, a worker on a road project, hit Herschel Harpster, a foreman, in the eye after Harpster had discharged him. Sheriff Long said.

All the workers on the project said they would strike if Ferguson was arrested and not permitted to return to the job, the sheriff was told.

Moellenkamp "fined" Ferguson two days work and warned him that another attack on a foreman would bring his permanent dismissal. No charges were filed.

Harpster told officers he dismissed Ferguson because he refused to put out a fire he had built to warm his hands. Angered when Harpster refused to let him complete his day's work, Ferguson struck the foreman, Harpster said. Both men are from Mansfield.

When the Girls Athletic association of John Simpson Junior high school stages its annual dance, "The Snow Ball" tonight in the school gymnasium, the event will go down in the history of the school as the last social event to be held in the building before it is razed to make way for the new building. The gymnasium, however, will remain as a part of the new building. Razing of the building is scheduled to begin during the Christmas vacation.

A miniature board fence, said to be 200 years old, surrounds a model farm in a Christmas display in a window at the E. F. Malone Plumbing company on North Main street. The fence, about four inches high, encloses a tiny log cabin covered with snow. Nearby is Santa Claus with his sleigh and reindeer ready to pay a visit to the home. The fence, owned by Malone, was carved by hand, and old-fashioned square nails were used to build it.

LEAGUE SEEKS DRY U. S. AGAIN

National Prohibition Aim of Anti-Saloon Group, Parley's Key Speaker Declares.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Keyed to the cause of national prohibition, delegates resumed sessions of the Anti-Saloon league's 30th annual convention today.

"I do not hesitate to say that our objective is national prohibition in some form or other," declared Dr. Arthur J. Barton of Wilmington, N. C., in a militant keynote address last night.

The pastor asserted that although his own state was "wetter than ever" and that pulpit and press crusaders had slowed down since repeal, "we will not desert the principles for which we have fought."

He complained that the return of legal liquor had resulted in "more young women tending bars today than there are in our universities."

In another address yesterday, Edward S. Dunford of Washington, D. C., league attorney, warned wet forces to tighten the rein on "the liquor traffic."

"Unless conditions surrounding the liquor traffic are changed," he said, "public sentiment is likely to force state-national action that will outlaw the liquor traffic more speedily and lastingly than proved possible under the prohibition amendment."

GIRL, 10, STANDS ON HER HEAD AND TAP DANCES TO WIN SHOW

A "blues" song and a tap dance while standing on her head won first place for 10-year-old Donna Miller of Mansfield in the Junior Association of Commerce amateur show and community sing last night in the Senior high school auditorium.

Offered her choice of an audition at radio station WTAM, Cleveland, or $25 in cash, the tiny girl quickly chose the money award.

She performed her unusual dance by tapping on the lower side of a platform over her as she held herself erect with her hands on the floor.

Second prize of $15 went to the Hayden trio, two boys and a girl playing a violin, cello and piano, while the third prize of $10 was won by Paul R. Gannaway and his sister, Dorothy, vocal team.

The show, which included 18 of the best amateur acts Mansfield has seen in a single performance, was witnessed by an audience of approximately 400. Proceeds of the show will be used to buy shoes and clothing for needy families.

James Clapper was master of ceremonies and led group singing of several popular songs and Christmas carols.

Other contestants in the amateur show included:

Eva Marie Tietz, vocal solo; Harold Becker, novelty piano act; Marjorie Gale, vocal solo; Dale Bechtel, violin solo; Jack and Mary Alice Berger, comedy dance; Floyd Bookwalter, musical saw; Anita Louise King, toe dance and acrobatic act; Arthur L. Boyce, vocal solo; Pop's Ranch band, hillbilly entertainers; Betty Jean Wynn, song and dance act; Bob Early, vocal solo; the Accordionettes, accordion band; Joe Atton, whistler; the Jonathan Glee club, directed by Albert Arnold, and Fred Leedy, baton twirler of the Bellville school band.

Eugene Smart's accordion band played between acts. Miss Genevieve Howell played the piano accompaniment for the acts and the group singing.

The entertainment was in charge of a committee headed by Richard Burnham of the Junior Association of Commerce.

SPECULATE ON SUCCESSORS IN KEY U. S. POSTS

Capital Observers See West as Possible Selection as Roosevelt Secretary.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The resignation of Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper focused attention today on the growing list of vacant key government posts and increased speculation on possible appointees.

Roper's retirement, which becomes effective Dec. 23, will leave two places open in the cabinet; Attorney-General Cummings' resignation becomes effective Jan. 1. In addition, there are vacancies in the supreme court, the White House secretariat, the treasury, federal reserve board, the general accounting office and the budget bureau.

Ickes Stays on Job.

A threatening third vacancy in the cabinet was eliminated by Secretary of the Interior Ickes' announcement that he would not seek the Chicago mayoralty.

Most prominently mentioned to succeed Roper is Works Progress Administrator Hopkins.

Two names stand out in speculative discussion of Cummings' successor. They are Robert H. Jackson, solicitor general, and Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan.

Many have been suggested as possible successors to the late Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, but the most persistent names heard include Professor Felix Frankfurter of Harvard Law School, unofficial White House advisor, and Federal Circuit Court Judge Sam G. Bratton of New Mexico.

The resignation of James Roosevelt as his father's secretary and confidential aide leaves a vacancy among White House secretaries. Governor Murphy also has been mentioned as a possibility for this job along with former Undersecretary of the Interior Charles West of Ohio, who served as a White House liaison man at the capitol.

Born in Richland county, May 2, 1861, the daughter of Charles and Martha Cosner Copeland, pioneer residents of the county, Mrs. Letts spent her entire life in this vicinity.

The survivors include three sons, Charles and Dale Letts and Raymond Dent of Mansfield; three daughters, Mrs. Irene Newton, Mrs. Dora Au, and Mrs. Trenna Braden of Mansfield; a sister Mrs. Mellie Davis of Mansfield, 27 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren. Mrs. Letts and her husband celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary nine years ago. She was a member of the First Christian church and Willing club.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where brief services will be held at 1 p. m. Sunday. Services will be held at the Franklin church at 2 p. m., with Rev. G. E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Franklin cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Authors Advised to Keep Their Shirts on, Thus Do Their Writing in Comfort

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Stackpole Sons, the book publishers, have released a little blurb about John Fante, a young author on their list, in connection with his novel, "Wait Until Spring," which says that he starts work fully dressed and ends entirely naked.

I have not had a chance to read the book, being way back on my fiction, due to preoccupation with many angry books about the scoundrels who gypped the American people back before the turn of the century, books about Hitler, Mussolini and Japan, and books of disillusionment about the great Soviet experiment in human betterment by backsliding Communists, who spent six months in Moscow and came out scratching.

In the matter of fiction I am no further along than "Black Oxen," so unless "Wait Until Spring" is indeed one of those living, human documents, its will be cold on the drug store shelves long before I can get around to it.

But, whatever the merits of Mr. Fante's writing, I venture to suggest that he might do just as well or better if he were to keep his shirt on and learn to relax, because no man can undress completely at his work without conscious affectation, which seems to impair his treatment of his story. Even in the presence of himself alone a man is pretty sure to feel that he is being just too, too temperamental.

* * *

Mr. Fante is a novelist and I am not, but I have seen novelists of both sexes at work and producing good copy, too, without resort to Minsky effects.

One time in Chicago, for example, the Daily News bought a baseball novel by Christy Mathewson, called "Won In the Ninth," and Mr. Bickett, city editor of the American, seeing the announcement of this great work, determined not to be scooped entirely. Frank Chance was then the local baseball hero of Chicago, and it happened that Mr. Bickett had on his city staff a first-class reporter and rewrite man named Carl Pankaek, who was a cousin or brother-in-law of Mr. Chance. So Mr. Pankaek came in off his murder, or whatever it was, lit a cigaret and typed off the title line of a rival novel by Frank Le Roy Chance, the peerless leader of the Chicago Cubs, "A Bride and a Pennant."

He did not take off his shirt, shoes or trousers, but just sat down in one of those old-time newspaper chairs with the green glass phone pole insulators for feet and wrote his first installment. Every day for a couple of weeks Mr. Pankaek would knock off a chapter of "A Bride and a Pennant," and it was my opinion as a member of the reading public, that his novel, though shorter, was better than Mr. Mathewson's.

* * *

I was impressed another time by the conduct of Mr. Jimmy Whittaker of the New York Mirror, in the presence of a great literary crisis. Mr. Whittaker and Mr. Jo Swerling were writing a novel called "Shebo," day by day for the Mirror, turn and turn about, until, abruptly and inconsiderately, Mr. Whittaker was sent to Hartford for the trial of Gerald Chapman, the desperado. Thus for several days Mr. Swerling, being in the office in New York, was compelled to write not only his own installments, but, on the odd days, write for Jimmy, too.

The only spark of temperament flashed later when Mr. Whittaker and Mr. Swerling sold the movie rights to "Shebo" for $35,000 and each received a check for $17,500. The next day Mr. Phil Payne, the editor, telephoned Mr. Whittaker several times, demanding that he come to work. Finally, Mr. Payne lost his temper and threatened Mr. Whittaker's economic security, to which Mr. Whittaker grandly replied, "Oh, put it in writing. I am composing a symphony."

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—High on the list of any actor's dreads in Hollywood is the bugaboo of "typing." And I've just discovered that, just as in the Gershwin song, it ain't necessarily so.

There's a picture being made in which practically every principal—even, alas, including the director—has done a complete about-face in characterizations within the past two years.

It's called "Wife, Husband and Friend" although that probably will be changed. Hollywood hasn't changed THAT much.

But Loretta Young is the heroine. Two years ago, until "Love Is News," Loretta was our sweet, ethereal romantic; in this one she is sweet, but also a comedienne.

Hero is Warner Baxter, erstwhile dashing fellow, here doing his best to portray a blundering mugg of a spouse; "Friend" of the title is Binnie Barnes, one-time romantic heroine, later a siren and heavy, currently in a semi-comedy role. And Cesar Romero, launched as an impassioned shiek-type screen lover, has gone through the heavy stage and emerged as a comic. J. Edward Bromberg, beginning as a villain, is clear of the stigma at last.

* * *

The director—and here is the sad part of all this—is Gregory Ratoff. He too has changed. Once, until very recently, Ratoff was a champion scene-stealer before the camera. Lately, with his ascent to a directorial throne, the inimitable Ratoff has begun to yield to a malignant attack of Dignity.

The pink-faced cherub of the lots, whose accent is ingrown and can't be shaken off like other comic assets, has decided that buffoonery is ho-keh for dem dot hess to meke pipple leff, but not for a director. Meester Ratoff, he is try to be deeg-nefy, yah, though it keel heem. Meester Ratoff no more like to have pipple spik of his accent. Thees ees sad, veree sad. I do not like it. I think, at least I hope, Meester Ratoff will recover and play true to "type" again. Behind the cameras, as it is, there is little enough cheer. I want a Ratoff who will continue to be funnier than anyone he directs—and dignity to the contrary, that is the Ratoff we still have

* * *

Speaking of "types," it looks as if the feminine stars have achieved a return to the more placid role of interested spectator in the screen's battles. Last year, the glamor girl who was not up to taking a clip on the chin from the hero was scarcely worthy of consideration. Carole Lombard, as the most frequently battered of heroines, attained an unique position. Irene Dunne, Myrna Loy, Claudette Colbert and other queens "took it" for their art, and a good hair-pulling, scratching contest between two feminine pugilists was written into many scripts.

This year, the girl aggressors are being given a back seat while the manly males are being allowed to assert their manliness and reveal the hair on their chests. The outdoor-action features, so useful in mussing up the charm and beauty of the males, are permitting the heroines to relax.

Occasionally, there is still a battle royal between the ladies, like the hammer-and-tongs encounter of Alice Faye and Connie Bennett for "Tailspin." But such vigorous goings-on seem but nostalgic reminders of the days that were.

MANSFIELDERS STOP IN ST. PETERSBURG

Many Residents Already Are Visiting In Southern Metropolis; Others Expected Before Middle of Next Month.

THAT story that returning Mansfielders tell about "you can't go to Florida without finding somebody from home" is no tall tale. Although the winter season is not quite launched on the gulf coast a number of your neighbors are already in the sunny clime, and no telling who will be going along next week or the week after.

By mid-January it is expected that 25 or so folks from around the town will be basking in sunlight while we freeze ears and toes in mid-western snow storms.

A St. Petersburg release recevided here today tells us that Mrs. Olive R. Ackerman, 138 South Main street, veteran Florida-goer, arrived by train a few days ago. She will spend her 12th season in the south. An apartment on Fifth avenue will be the headquarters of Miss Laura Anderson, Park avenue west, until sometime next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Deatrick, Park avenue west, have already re-opened their winter home at 1725 Patton avenue south, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lauer, 99 South Adams street, have located a suitable apartment for the cold months.

WITH the arrival of the holiday season, many Mansfield college students will be coming home for the first time in several months. . . . Alreacy vacation plans are materializing and it looks as though the next few weeks will be crammed with play and merriment.

* * *

John Hammer is returning tomorrow to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hammer, 827 Dickson parkway. John is a sophomore at Denison this year, an English major, and a member of the varsity debate team. I hear tell he's right proud of his fraternity, Kappa Sigma, too. . . . Their fraternity house is one of the outstanding landmarks around these parts of Ohio. . . . It was constructed in about 1842 and has since come to be regarded as a model of its type of architecture, an excellent replica of Greek Revival design.

The old adage, "like father, like son," has a slightly different application so far as the Giffin family is concerned. Naomi, who is a freshman at Miami this year, followed in her older sister, Martha's, footsteps . . . and pledged the same sorority, Alpha Omicron Pi. Then to go a step further, she was elected president of her pledge class—like Martha, who was president of the chapter while a senior at the university last year. Naomi will be home tomorrow and Martha will arrive next Friday

* * *

SPEAKING of Martha, she's been teaching school at Lebanon this fall . . . and is the art supervisor for more than 200 children. Martha is one of those unusual persons who can plan for Christmas in the middle of Indian summer. Early last October, she had her young students gather gourds, cat-o-nine tails, milk weed pods, pine cones, and all other varieties of woodland weeds and bring them to school. These, they painted in bright colors (just as their artistic instincts dictated), and so now that the holiday season is at hand, they are planning to use their painted handiwork to decorate a large Christmas tree for the school . . . a truly different idea, which is nice indeed.

* * *

The college influence has invaded Mansfield, even before the arrival of the students . . . and our downtown streets have taken on the appearance of a college campus . . . what with so many young girls wearing bright colored scarfs tied over their heads. Then there are some, who still adhere to the up-swept hair style, and go about with curls piled high above their ears . . . not only scarfless, but hatless as well. (All of which must be very disconcerting for the hat shops.)

Are you looking for a lost dog named Skipper? If you are, Mabel Hamaker has him and he's looking for you. Skipper is a white fox terrier with a brown ring around one of his eyes, a brown tail, and one brown ear. A friend of Mrs. Hamaker's found him at a downtown store, where he'd been staying for two days. The Hamakers are doing everything to make Skipper happy, but he won't be consoled . . . but if his owner will drive out to 196 Penn avenue, I'm sure Skipper will be awfully glad to go home with him.

Marriage Course on College Slate

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Simmons College of Boston, Massachusetts, is the latest institution of learning to give a series of lectures on marriage. Factors which keep marriages from going stale and help to make them increasingly satisfying will be discussed by Professor Alexander McGoun of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In a spirit of what is sauce for the goose is likewise sauce for the gander, on the day following each lecture at Simmons, Professor McGoun will conduct a similar series for the young men who are students at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

To prevent youngsters from bolting into marriage with no idea of the responsibility marriage promises entail, various colleges and high schools have taken the question in hand. The lectures at Simmons, for instance, will carry no credits and will be entirely aside from the regular curriculum. This course, which resulted from urgent demand by organizations representing sixteen hundred students.

It's a hopeful sign that more students desired to enroll in these courses than lecture-hall space permitted. It's heartening to know that they want to do the right thing, even if they trip up emotionally and fail.

If mismating involved only husbands and wives, that's enough of a tragedy, but the havoc that divorce works on the children of such marriages is incalculable. Bandied from one set of parents to another by the whimsies of divorce, such children become antisocial. And it is no wonder that the dean of one of America's greatest universities objects seriously to accepting students whose parents have been divorced.

GUIDO IS married and has sailed for America. The wedding had to be postponed and so was held only the day before they sailed. I called up the hotel and definitely reserved the apartment for them from the day of the arrival of the boat from Naples.

Just as I thought, everyone is planning big doings in their honor And, of course, the smart hostesses of the town are also arranging parties. The bride comes of one of the noblest Venetian families and Guido is very popular on this side. But I know that Guido isn't going to accept any invitations unless the dates are satisfactory and don't conflict with anything we have arranged. He said as much in his last cable. We called the line and they said that the ship is expected at about 10 o'clock in the morning, which isn't so bad.

Don Will Meet Him.

Don's brother-in-law arrives from England tomorrow and Don is going down the bay to meet him. Phylys is so excited over his visit and I guess a lot of girls are, too. For, as I told you, he is very, very good looking, is heir to an old title and to a pretty nice fortune, a real Prince Charming. Don says that he and his wife can't get a moment's rest, for it seems that every hostess and mama with a deb daughter is calling and wanting to extend an invitation. Don said that not at its worst was the autograph fan charge ever as fierce.

We are giving a Sunday afternoon and evening party at the apartment with the young Englishman and the Italian newly-weds as guests of honor. It will be a real get-together, for it will give people a chance to meet Consuelo's family, too. We have to give a Christmas party and this will be it. We are giving it on Christmas Sunday since Christmas day will be celebrated on the Monday.

This is the sort of frock that finds plenty of wear for itself just now. It is of black wool piped with satin, and is nice for general daytime wear. The piping outlines the yoke which terminates in a smal bow at the neck. There are gathers from the piping aboue the bust. Satin-piped pockets are below the waistline, and there are gathers from them.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, December 17.

THERE ARE indications of a particularly lively and perhaps strenuous day, according to the lunar as well as mutual aspects. Nevertheless, there may be much high pressure activity that is not of a particularly harmonious nature. A tendency to rash, impetuous and irritating conduct may incite enmity, jealousy and opposition. Speculation and new matters may prove gainful if managed with proper restraint.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of much activity and enterprise, with much to be gained in speculation, new projects and major interests if they are not put in jeopardy by rash, impetuous and tempestuous conduct. The latter would be sure to excite bitter opposition, strife and jealousy or hatred.

A child born on this day may have fine intuitive and the power to put over important projects by its energy, audacity and determination. At the same time, its indomitable will, impetuosity and perhaps quarrelsome nature may invite defeat and unfriendliness.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Oh! I couldn't stay in bed all day. I'd go insane. Besides, I have a million little things to do, some correspondence to bring up, a book I've been promising myself to read, even a bit of revision of my play. I shall have plenty to keep me out of mischief, I promise you. Now run along to Mary, dear boy, and thank you ever so much for your invitation to dine with you. Some other time, when all this fuss is over, I shall hold you to the invitation."

I had relieved his secret fear. I knew that as I saw his eyes brighten, and I felt like the consummate hypocrite I was when he bent over me and kissed me, saying huskily: "You're the world's best." Then he turned suddenly and went out, and I lay back in my chair, all appetite for dinner gone, while I pondered how to fit the drill for rehearsals which Mary must have into the time which I had literally stolen, from Philip Veritzen for their reunion.

Orgy of Resting.

For once, realization exceeded expectation. I do not remember ever having so "gorgeously lazy" a time, as Mary would have dubbed it. I ate my dinner between glimpses of articles I meant to read later, and when the waiter had removed the trays, I got into bed, propped my pillows behind me, adjusted the reading lamp and started on a perfect orgy of reading and resting.

It was eleven o'clock when Mary knocked upon the door, and as she closed it behind her, I knew that somewhere a discordant note had crept into her harmony.

'What is it, darling?" I asked when she had closed the door. She came over to the bed and kissed me tenderly.

"You're psychic, aren't you?" she countered in the same low tones I had used. "It's nothing much, but I feel I have to talk to you. I've got Noel parked with his pipe and his favorite magazine, and he'll stay put for a few minutes, especially as I told him I was a bit worried about you. But it isn't you that's worrying me."

"Who is it? Noel?" I asked, seeing that she expected the question.

"Nobody else," she said. "He hasn't said anything right out, but I'm sure he thinks I have to do some work on the play while I'm here, and I'm afraid he'll kick worse than the well-known Texas steer. I'd like to shake him, but he's so sweet and so happy over our being together this little time that I can't get mad at him. He's counting every minute a 'bead apart, his rosary,' or however that song goes. But, of course, I know we've got to work, so I ask you, what's to be done?"

Her voice was flippant but her eyes were worried, and I felt a sudden surge of sympathy for this gifted, winsome creature, so palpably torn between her love and her ambition.

I made a sudden resolution. I would not bother her with this scheme of mine. I would carry it through myself.

"Mary, darling," I said. "I have a scheme which I think will work. Will you leave it and Noel to me, only be ready to catch the cues I shall feed you tomorrow morning? They won't be hard to understand."

Eyes Need Regular Attention

By MME. QUI VIVE

Take a survey of your favorite screen star. Then look at her eyes. They are her true representatives. They catch your interest.

Eyes tell the story. Sneaky girls have shifty eyes, dumb girls have stupid ones, intelligent girls have understanding eyes. So it goes. Eyes express all the emotions, good and bad. When you see cold, cruel eyes, watch out. When you see warm, twinkling ones watch out too, unless you want to fall in love.

With hair still swept upward, no forhead valances allowed, beauty specialists are playing up eye treatments to beat the band. It isn't fair to let crinkles form around them. That's ruinous.

Eyebrows and long silky winkers embellish the eyes, so take care of them. Let the eyebrows get back to first base—if they're nice ones; if they're not, keep on weeding them and apply vaseline or mineral oil to the lashes. Since eyes are the sparkling jewels among the facial features it is only right that they should have lovely settings.

Use your massage cream every night, rain or shine, willy-nilly. Sweep it over the upper lid to the temple, bring the finger back under the eye to the starting point.

Be gentle when bathing the eyes, using warm water then cold. Don't dig them with your fists. If the lids are red and irritated, use a boric acid solution. If they continue to smart and burn seek the services of a physician who specializes in the treatment of soul windows.

Holiday Fare Offered Here Today

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Here are some recipes that are presented with an eye to holiday fare and entertaining.

A hot spiced fruit punch and orange frosted doughnuts make a tid-bit that youngsters seem to like so much. Allow one good-sized doughnut for each helping. Frost with an orange tinted icing made by creaming together well three tablespoons butter, two cups powdered sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons orange juice, one teaspoon grated orange rind and orange vegetable coloring as needed. It is sufficient for 24 doughnuts.

To make sufficient punch for 24 servings, use a quart of cider, one cup brown sugar, four two-inch sticks of cinnamon, six whole cloves, two quarts orange juice, two cups lemon juice, orange and lemon slices. Combine cider, brown and granulated sugars, cinnamon and cloves. Boil five minutes. Mix with orange and lemon juice which have been heated just to the boiling point (be sure they do not boil). Float fruit slices on top for garnish. Serve immediately in mugs.

Deviled Ham Loaf.

A devilled ham loaf with a piquant mustard sauce is a nice dish when you want to get away from left-over turkey and other holiday fare for supper. To make the loaf, mix one and one-half pounds each lean shoulder of pork and smoked ham, both ground, also one and one-half cups milk one whole egg, two egg whites (beaten stiff), one cup cracker crumbs and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Shape into loaf. Bake at 350 F. for one and one-half hours. Serve with a sauce made with one tablespoon flour, one-quarter cup butter or substitute, one beef extract cube, one-half cup boiling water, one-half cup prepared mustard, one-quarter cup sugar, two egg yolks, beaten, and one-half cup lemon juice. Cream flour and butter together over low heat. Add boiling water, beef cube, mustard and sugar. When slightly thickened, carefully add the egg yolks. Cook for 10 minutes. Remove from flames, add lemon juice and stir well. Serve at once.

Pumpkin Pie.

Pumpkin pie is a headliner from Thanksgiving on through the holidays, so it is nice to have a variation on this sweet theme. We suggest, therefore, a honey pumpkin pie that is made with an all-bran pastry shell. It requires one unbaked all-bran pastry shell, two eggs, one cup milk, one-half cup cream, one and one-half cup stewed or canned pumpkin, one-half cup honey or two-thirds cup brown sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon each ginger and salt. Beat eggs slightly; add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into unbaked pastry shell and bake in hot oven (450 F.) for about 15 minutes. Reduce the heat to 350 F. and continue baking 45 minutes or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. The yield is one eight-inch pie.

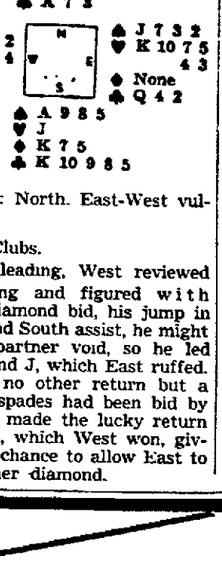
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LISTEN AND LEARN

If one of your opponents bids and rebids a particular suit, and his partner then assists it, how many cards have they in the suit? Right at least eight or nine. If you have four cards of the suit, how many can your partner hold? Right—either one or none. When you listen to such bidding conversation you may learn many things, if you also think—including the best defense against the eventual contract.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North 5-Clubs.

Before leading, West reviewed the bidding and figured with North's diamond bid, his jump in the suit and South assist, he might find his partner void, so he led the diamond J, which East ruffed. East had no other return but a heart, as spades had been bid by South. He made the lucky return of a heart, which West won, giving him a chance to allow East to ruff another diamond.

With any other lead the hand is a laydown, as only one club and one heart need by lost.

DRUG FIRM HEAD ENDS OWN LIFE

Coster Kills Self After U. S. Unmasks Him as 'Brains' of Family of Swindlers.

from his wife which said he was going under a false name.

In the letter, Miss Lockne said, Mrs. Vernard referred to her husband as "Arthur Musica."

Free Under Bond.

Coster and Deitrich, meanwhile, were free under $5,000 bail each at Fairfield, Conn., where the former was reported ill.

The U. S. postoffice was the fifth agency to enter the investigation. It started an inquiry to determine whether the mail fraud statutes had been violated in connection with the false records of the company's non-existent crude drug department. The other investigating agencies were in the state attorney general's office, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, the securities exchange commission and the department of justice.

The U. S. attorney's office asked for the re-arrest of all three men and said it would demand bail of $100,000 each.

New and increasingly fantastic facts of McKesson & Robbins activities kept turning up as the investigations progressed. Federal authorities sought a possible connection between the firm and the illicit alcohol traffic of prohibition days and illegal gun-running of more recent years.

Federal agents were investigating reports that Musica-Coster was the financial backer of the munitions ship Mar Cantabrico which was captured almost two years ago by the Spanish rebels as it attempted to run the blockade to Loyalist Spain.

The unmasking of Coster as a man with an unsavory past was the second blow to fall upon his associates in Wall street. His firm, third largest of its kind in the world, with $87,000,000 listed assets and a $174,000,000 annual business, had failed two weeks ago with an $18,000,000 shortage. It was a shortage not of cash but of tangible goods — huge warehouses stocked with drugs—that had been carried on the books but did not exist.

The enigma of "Coster" was comparable only to that of his company.

Loaned Huge Sums.

He had the admiration and respect of the leading financiers: they had lent him $20,000,000 and distributed $16,000,000 worth of his firm's bonds so that he could expand his business—He had spent three years in prison for perpetrating a celebrated "human hair" swindle that cost his backers more than $1,000,000 25 years ago.

He pulled his company through the depression with an untarnished credit rating—his first business venture as a youth had been smuggling Italian cheese.

He has written a brilliant biography for himself in the latest edition of Who's Who—he had been charged with perjury in 1920

Seized In New Spy Trouble

Latest outbreak of "spy troubles" in the United States concerns Mikhail Gorin, 34 left, manager of Intourist, Inc., a Soviet agency, and Hafis Salich, 33, right, Russian-American formerly attached to the United States naval intelligence department, who were arrested in Los Angeles on espionage charges. A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation said that "what these men did was to steal the secret information we had obtained on the Japanese military, and converted it to their (Russia's) own use." They are held under $25,000 bail each.

Who's who recorded him as having received a doctor's degree at Heidelburg university in 1909—he was in Elmira, N. Y., reformatory in 1909 for smuggling cheese.

As yet the alcohol and gun running phases of the story were vague. Assistant Attorney General Brien McMahon had announced in Washington that the justice department had found evidence indicating a conspiracy to export arms in cases labeled "milk of magnesia." He said that "leads are now being run down which indicate that Coster has been involved in a conspiracy to ship arms and ammunition to beligerent nations barred from receiving arms and ammunition under the neutrality act."

The suggestion of alcohol traffic came from Ambrose V. McCall, assistant New York attorney general in charge of a public hearing here. He has hammered at witnesses repeatedly on the fact that Coster's enterprises have involved handling alcohol since he first appeared on the New York financial scene in 1925 under the name of Coster, seeking financial backing to expand his little hair tonic business at Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

ITALY WORRIES AS POPULATION DESERTS HILLS

Unproductive Soil in Parts of 19 Provinces Causes Moving Out Action.

(By United Press)

A census taken in the 19 most mountainous provinces of the kingdom reveals that the population has shown an increase of only 400,000 in the last 65 years. In 1871, one year after the formation of the Italian state, the population in these regions totaled 2,167,300. Today it is 2, 567,330, or a low annual increase of 6,154.

Appointed to study the problem is a committee formed by members of the National Research council and the Institute for Agrarian Economy. The provinces studied are in the regions of Emilia, Tuscany, Romagna, Abruzzi and Lazio.

The slight annual increase does not give a true picture of the situation, according to the committee, because some of the higher, less fertile and more trying regions have been almost completely depopulated and abandoned. It also points out that the social and economic situation of the peasants has shown a steady decline.

Children Leave Area.

The committee states that the depopulation has been caused not only by lower birthrates but by outright desertion by the children. Many have been traced to farms at lower altitudes and less trying conditions and others to the industrail sections.

The depopulation process is attributed to the fact that greatly inferior earning power has produced a discouraging, low level in living conditions. The poorness of the soil and the limited knowledge of the discouraged peasants to cope with the agricultural and grazing problems—made all the more difficult under existing conditions—has had an effect on their incomes. This in turn has had a direct bearing on their economic and social conditions.

After much study the committee has adapted a plan which it hopes will halt the migratory process to other regions and better the situation of the until-now neglected peasants of these localities

Questionnaires For Grads.

The Commercial club of the school began a follow-up study of graduates of the past several years, at a meeting yesterday at the school.

The purpose of the survey is to find what subjects are needed most by students after they graduate from high school. Each member of the club will be assigned a list of graduates to contact, and to have them fill out a specially prepared questionnaire for the survey.

Findings of the survey will be used in preparing future courses of study at the school. Graduates will be contacted personally.
